Property Tax Row Heads Back To High Court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The legal merry-go-round over Ohio's property tax assessment rates has completed a full turn with the issue going back to the state supreme court.

Park Investment Co. of Cleveland, which started legal proceedings 11 years ago, said it would file a contempt action after the Ohio Board of Tax Appeals Tuesday certified the 1972 Scioto County abstract, which did not satisfy court orders for uniformity.

The board purposely picked the Scioto County abstract to set itself up as a potential court defendant to resolve a long dilemma over the assessment and collection of property taxes.

Park Investment's counsel, John Forester of Cleveland, stressed the firm would be filing a friendly action, saying there were "no hard feelings" toward members of the board.

Board Chairman Edwin Sawicki said the board had been placed in an impossible position after the supreme court ordered an immediate uniform statewide assessment rate, but the legislature enacted a law allowing for the change to take place gradually between 1972 and 1977.

Several weeks ago Sawicki asked the supreme court to issue further instructions as a result of the conflict. But the court refused because it could not rule on the constitutionality of a law that was not before it.

The early deadline is for compliance with the Sept. 12 special tax levy vote in that district.

Shriver Given Official Nod By Democrats

'Not Embarrassed To Be McGovern's Seventh Choice'

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a prime-time unity show, the Democrats have handed their vice-presidential nomination to Sargent Shriver and cheered the ticket's opening swings at President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

"I'm not embarrassed to be George McGovern's seventh choice for vice president," Shriver said Tuesday after the Democratic National Committee added him to the ticket. "We Democrats may be short of money. We're not short of talent. Think of the comparison and then you can pity poor Mr. Nixon—his first and only choice was Spiro Agnew."

The Democrats loved it. "If we have used valuable time in the selection of a vice-presidential nominee," McGovern said, "the nation must wish the Republicans had made their choice with greater care."

And thus the lines were drawn again, this time with McGovern teamed with Shriver in place of Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri, who withdrew last week after disclosing that he had undergone shock treatment for mental depression in the 1960s.

McGovern and Shriver were to try and sustain the momentum at a unity luncheon today with members of the Democratic National Committee, which winds up its extraordinary three-day meeting today with some ordinary business.

In addition, Latin and women's caucuses were to meet separately with McGovern to air grievances that they—and their favorite issues—aren't being represented in his campaign.

In the balloting, Shriver was given 2,936 of the committee's authorized 3,016 votes.

Protesters Recruited Against GOP

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Protest leaders are trying to recruit demonstrators for the Republican National Convention with an illustrated guidebook calling for "nonviolent civil disobedience" and warning participants to be prepared for mass arrests.

"The Manual for the Republican Convention" distributed Tuesday by five protest groups said the goal of demonstrations during the Aug. 21-23 GOP convention "is to isolate and defeat Richard Milhous Nixon."

The tabloid-size pamphlet urged protesters to avoid property damage and disruption of Miami Beach's senior citizen community.

"We will not provoke or attack police, National Guard or our brothers who are GIs," it added.

But the 24-page manual laid out a step-by-step plan for "occupying" the streets surrounding Miami Beach Convention Hall on the night President Nixon is expected to give his nomination acceptance speech.

"Four more years of Nixon will be accepted on the inside of the convention hall, while outside troops ring the perimeter and thousands of us resist and say NO!" the manual said.

Using aerial photos to illustrate, the guidebook mapped out four sites where demonstrators should congregate during the convention. It speculated on which areas police were likely to permit protesters to gather and the sites where arrests were likely.

When asked if he considers peace likely within the Ohio Republican Party in the wake of recent divisive primaries, Rhodes replied, "Peace? I don't know that there's been a war. I never wanted to say an unkind word about any Republican."

Rhodes Claims No Political Plans Made

CINCINNATI (AP) — Former Ohio Gov. James Rhodes said here Tuesday night he has no political plans now other than "supporting and speaking for the national ticket."

Rhodes, attending a fund raising dinner for Cong. Donald Clancy, R-2nd District, said he hasn't "talked to anyone" about his own political future. He said he's "stayed aloof from intra-party disputes."

350,000 Sign Petition For Election

Tax Repeal Fight 'Over Top'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Income tax repeal leaders were to file petitions bearing more than 350,000 signatures today while opponents, apparently caught off guard, researched defensive action.

The repeal drive, headed by Rep. Robert Netzel, R-7 Laura, caught fire about a week ago.

As of 2 p.m. Tuesday, more than 326,653 of the necessary 318,414 signatures to put the issue on the November ballot had been obtained.

"We are not slowing down," Netzel told newsmen. He said the repeal movement hoped to have 350,000 names on hand when they went into Brown's office.

The Ohio Education Association, an income tax backer, announced that organizations against repeal would hold a news conference Wednesday, tentatively set for 2 p.m.

The Ohio State Council of Retail Merchants said it already has lawyers checking the validity of the repeal drive.

The Netzel forces, at the same time, said they were checking the possibility of civil rights action against circulators who, under pressure, did not file their assigned petitions with repeal headquarters.

Netzel said the American Civil Liberties Union has volunteered legal counsel if it is determined that the constitutional rights of some petition signers were violated.

Netzel, Rep. Joseph Tulley, R-37 Mentor; and Rep. Richard Reichel, R-92 Massillon, held a news conference shortly after announcing they had obtained the minimum number of necessary signatures to put the issue on the ballot.

The petitions were to be delivered to Brown at 2:30 p.m. today by armored car. He will send them to county boards of election to check the validity of signatures.

If Brown finds the revised list of names falls short of the 318,414 minimum, he must, by law, give Netzel's group another 10 days in which to make up the loss.

Brown estimated 10 to 13 per cent of the signatures on similar petitions are invalid. Tulley said he figured it may go higher than that on theirs.

"I think we had pretty good petitions up until the weekend,"

Netzel said. "Then there was a concentrated drive, and we may have gotten some bad ones."

Meanwhile, OEA director John Hall said if the issue gets on the ballot his organization is going to "make a conscientious effort to see that the people of Ohio know what the real issues are not the simple surface things these repeal people have presented to them."

But prior to that, Hall said, "We're going to make certain they follow the law and the Ohio Constitution in filing petitions." (Continued on Page 2)

Fight Against Cancer Expanded

(Editors note: This past February federal legislation went into effect to speed and expand what the Nixon administration called a crusade against cancer. Following is a status report on that effort.)

By FRANK CAREY AP Science Writer

In the latest development, the National Cancer Institute has awarded $44 million in construction grants to 17 U.S. medical-research institutions.

Award of the grants, soon to be announced formally, means the first time in almost a decade that the government has provided funds for construction work in the cancer field.

The cancer institute is administering the $500-million-a-year drive that seeks improved means of detecting, preventing, controlling and curing all forms of cancer.

NCI officials say cancer program costs will range from about a dime a day to feed each of millions of laboratory mice and rats to the $25,000 to $36,000 annual salaries for top researchers.

The building grants will provide new facilities, ranging from a 15-story research hospital for adult cancer patients in Boston to a unique project at the University of New Mexico Medical School in Albuquerque, says Dr. George Jay of NCI.

At the New Mexico site, a special unit will be built to prepare cancer patients for transport to the Atomic Energy Commission's nearly completed

"meson factory" in Los Alamos, 99 miles away. There, pioneer trials are planned of a new type of powerful ray that may be useful for treating cancer.

NCI already has announced award of a $6.8 million contract to a private biological research firm to convert the former Army germ-warfare laboratories at nearby Ft. Detrick, Md., into a cancer research center and operate it for at least the first year.

The Detrick contract, largest ever awarded by any arm of the government's National Institutes of Health, was obtained by Litton Bionetics Inc., a subsidiary of Litton Industries, Inc.

The contract, labeled award-fee, is the first of its kind in the history of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The contractor has no guaranteed profit. What he makes depends upon the quality and effectiveness of his work, up to a certain fixed ceiling.

Its tasks include producing "literally buckets-full" of viruses known to cause cancer in animals, for use by researchers throughout the country, according to Dr. Robert Stevenson, who will manage the Detrick facility.

He says it also will be a major national center for the

Ex-Sen. Gruening Said Recovering

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Former Sen. Ernest Gruening of Alaska was reported in "satisfactory and stable" condition today following surgery for removal of an intestinal tumor. Gruening, 85, was territorial governor of Alaska before becoming one of the 49th state's first two senators.

He was rushed to Mt. Sinai hospital July 15 while attending the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach. Surgery was performed at the time to relieve pressure caused by an intestinal obstruction. A 5½-hour operation was performed Tuesday to remove the tumor.

Three Arrested In Orient Narcotic Raid Tuesday

Continuances were granted Candice Watkins, 24, 2723 Farley Road, Columbus, and John D. Warneke, 19, Lakeland, Fla., Wednesday morning in Circuit Court after they were arrested in a drug raid Tuesday afternoon by Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Bill Dountz.

Miss Watkins and Warneke were placed under $5,000 bond each for maintaining a place for using, keeping, or selling marijuana and an additional $500 bond each for possession of marijuana.

A third man, Kenneth B. Thompson, 24, Cleveland, was placed under $5,000 bond for the felony charge.

All charges were continued until 10 a.m. Aug. 16. None of the defendants entered pleas to the charges, and only Miss Watkins was represented by an attorney, Steve Gusler, at Wednesday's hearing.

THEY were all arrested by Dountz and an entourage of postal inspectors and Franklin County organized crime and narcotic units at the 359 Carson Road, Orient, home of Clarence Thoma 2 p.m. Tuesday.

A telephone tip to Sheriff Dwight Radcliff led to the stakeout of the home, according to the affidavit.

Federal Postal Inspector Thomas Strausburg told the Sheriff that Orient Postmaster Robert Prindle discovered "a green vegetable, believed to be marijuana" in a package addressed to Miss Watkins at the Orient address.

Dountz met with Strausburg, Prindle and Detective Howard Champ and assistants Steve Martin and Dusty Cook of the Franklin County Organized Crime Squad Tuesday morning and determined that the substance found was a narcotic.

Phony 'Paid Pregnancy' Ad Draws Response From 500

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The advertisement read: "Wanted: Female to become pregnant. Must be under 26, Caucasian, intelligent and interesting. $10,000 fee plus expenses for an 18-month period, plus educational scholarship and fringe benefit."

How many women would be willing to enter into such an arrangement?

Hundreds, says Leonard E. Goodfarb, a Philadelphia accountant who placed the phony want ad last week in the underground newspaper "Thursday's Drummer."

Goodfarb said Tuesday he has received calls from about 500 women and has interviewed about 20 applicants in person.

"The forces of life, the urges that make one want to create life are still present," Goodfarb said. "This is very refreshing after reading about abortions and contraceptives and all that."

Many of the women didn't want any money at all, he said, "and curiously enough, no one asked who the father would be."

Goodfarb described the potential mothers as "very nice and polite" in tone, rather than desperate.

"One said the idea always fascinated her, having a child," he said. "But she wouldn't know what to do with it afterward."

"Another one, a fashion model from California, said that she doesn't like the idea of marriage but she does like the idea of a child."

"And another was a wife who said she could use the money to put her husband through school," Goodfarb told callers he represented a childless Philadelphia couple. The wife, he said, was unable to bear a child for medical reasons.

Later, he admitted there was no such couple.

They instructed mail carrier James Crawford to deliver the package at 1:45 p.m. Tuesday.

Detective Champ then phoned the Columbus Police Department, where Charles Woodward verified that the Narcotics Division had purchased three $10 bags of heroin at the Orient home on May 10.

ACTING Judge Allan Berger issued a search warrant early Tuesday afternoon and Dountz met with Allen Grossman, Columbus, owner of the rented house.

Grossman agreed to assist the lawmen and loaded them into

No Fault Bill Pigeonholed

Move Said Blow Against Consumer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has sent back to committee a bill to establish a national system of no-fault automobile insurance, apparently killing any chance of congressional action this year.

"Everybody knows what this motion is all about," Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., manager of the bill, told the Senate. "It buries the bill, simple as that."

By a 49-46 vote Tuesday night the Senate approved a motion by Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb., to send the Commerce Committee measure to the Judiciary Committee for further study.

Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Marlow Cook, R-Ky., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., argued that objectionable provisions and serious constitutional questions about the bill deserve study by the lawyers on Judiciary.

But Magnuson countered, the 17 lawyers on Commerce are just as able as the 17 on Judiciary.

Romance And Lure Of The Sea Ends In Tragedy For 6

By HOWARD BENEDICT Associated Press Writer

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Kim Powell loved the romantic lure, the adventure and the freedom of the sea. For years he dreamed of sailing the world with his family and he built a boat for the challenging journey.

But less than two months after the family and a friend set forth, the dream has been shattered on a reef in the stormy Caribbean, the boat splintered, Powell and five others missing and feared dead.

The tragedy came to light this week when the U.S. Coast Guard reported wreckage of Powell's 50-foot catamaran, the Tapiti Nui, had been recovered near Glover's Reef off the coast of British Honduras.

Missing are Powell, 59; his wife Jo-An, 45; their children, An, 20, James, 12, Gina, 8; and a friend Debbie Gordon, 23, all of Titusville.

They started the trip June 1 from this East Coast city, planning to circle the globe leisurely in four or five years.

Powell twice before gave up jobs to sail the sea. A friend, Bill Nassau of Titusville, said: "Kim was a nut about the water. He wanted nothing more than to take his family and escape from the problems of the world, just sail for the rest of his life if he could."

Powell got his excuse two years ago when he lost his job as a launch director for the Bendix Corp. at nearby Cape Kennedy.

Instead of seeking new employment, he began building

the twin-hulled boat in his backyard, designing the catamaran as he went along.

Completed last spring, the boat had a 24-by-50-foot deck with two side-by-side cabins. Each hull contained a shower, separate toilet and galley so two couples could sail together and "stay out of each other's hair," Powell said.

Under billowing sails, the Powells tested their ship in the Indian River. For windless days there were two diesel engines.

They named their magic cat-

pet the Tapiti Nui, Tahitian for "big double canoe."

A few days before they started on June 1, the Powells showed off their vessel to newsmen.

He recalled two earlier "abandoning-civilization" trips across the waters. The first was in his early 20s when he sailed the Caribbean. Later, he and his wife and a child sailed to the South Seas from California.

"It's hard to turn your back on a good-paying job, thinking about losing things like seniority," he admitted. "But it seems like the only people who get to do what they want is poor people." He described his financial condition as "impecunious."

GOP Check Embarrasses Party Chiefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $25,000 mystery check which was deposited in the bank account of a man accused of burglary at the Democratic party headquarters has added to "a growing source of embarrassment" for many Republicans, The Washington Post said today.

The Post said Maurice Stans, the finance chairman for President Nixon's re-election campaign, has acknowledged receiving the check, but said it was exchanged for $25,000 cash and he didn't know what happened to the check after that.

Stans said the cash was deposited in the Nixon campaign treasury. However, the Post said the General Accounting Office, which is auditing the Nixon campaign books, has found no evidence that the $25,000 was reported as a contribution by the Nixon campaign organization, or that the money was expended for campaign purposes.

Failure to report either contributions or expenditures after April 7 is considered a violation of the new federal elections law. Stans, a former secretary of Commerce, reportedly received the check on April 11 from Kenneth W. Dahlberg, the Midwest finance chairman for the Nixon campaign.

The cashier's check, drawn on a bank in Boca Raton, Fla., was made out to Dahlberg, who said it represented various campaign contributions.

Surface-Transit Proposal Includes $5 Billion Loan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional subcommittee's plan to aid the surface-transit industry reportedly includes $5 billion in federal loan guarantees for railroads.

The House transportation subcommittee agreed Tuesday on a bill which sources said contains new financial assistance and revisions in basic legal procedure for railroads and the trucking and barge industries.

The legislation, which now goes to the House Commerce Committee, is similar to proposals under review in a Senate committee.

The House subcommittee bill is the result of lengthy hearings and extensive subcommittee review. It combines provision of rival measures offered by industry, the Nixon administration and consumer groups, sources said.

Eagleton Praised For His Dignity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas Eagleton has received thousands of letters praising him, as one said, for "dignity and grace in defeat" in bowing out as the Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

The Missouri senator received about 20,000 letters last week and thousands more were being opened Monday as they overflowed from his office into a committee hearing room.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The legal merry-go-round over Ohio's property tax assessment rates has completed a full turn with the issue going back to the state supreme court.

The board purposely picked the Scioto County abstract to set itself up as a potential court defendant to resolve a long dilemma over the assessment and collection of property taxes.

Park Investment's counsel, John Forester of Cleveland, stressed the firm would be filing a friendly action, saying there were "no hard feelings" toward members of the board.

Board Chairman Edwin Sawicki said the board had been placed in an impossible position after the supreme court ordered an immediate uniform statewide assessment rate, but the legislature enacted a law allowing for the change to take place gradually between 1972 and 1977.

Several weeks ago Sawicki asked the supreme court to issue further instructions as a result of the conflict. But the court refused because it could not rule on the constitutionality of a law that was not before it officially.

Board members, thus, picked Scioto County's abstract, which was based on provisions of the 1972 property tax law, as the basis for a legal test.

Sawicki said the abstract is based on assessments of just under 33 per cent, except for agricultural property which had been assessed at just under 25 per cent.

After the Supreme Court's ruling, the Board of Tax Appeals set the statewide uniform rate at 35 per cent and further ordered that assessments be based on current market value as also ordered by the court. All counties were to switch to the 35 per cent rate this year.

Rates now vary from about 21 per cent to 37 per cent. The legislature, however, feared an immediate change to 35 per cent would cause chaos, providing a financial windfall in some counties while cutting sharply into the revenues of others.

So lawmakers enacted a bill enabling county auditors to make the changes during their regular reappraisals, which are conducted every six years on a staggered basis across the state.

The legislature also decreed that assessments be made on the basis of a property's use rather than on market value as ordered by the court.

Continuances were granted

Candice Watkins, 24, 2723 Farley Road, Columbus, and John D. Warneke, 19, Lakeland, Fla., Wednesday morning in Circleville Municipal Court after they were arrested in a drug raid Tuesday afternoon by Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Bill Dountz.

Miss Watkins and Warneke were placed under $5,000 bond each for maintaining a place for using, keeping, or selling marijuana and an additional $500 bond each for possession of marijuana.

A third man, Kenneth B. Thompson, 24, Cleveland, was placed under $5000 bond for the felony charge.

All charges were continued until 10 a.m. Aug. 16. None of the defendants entered pleas to the charges, and only Miss Watkins was represented by an attorney, Steve Gusler, at Wednesday's hearing.

THEY were all arrested by Dountz and an entourage of postal inspectors and Franklin County organized crime and narcotic units at the 359 Carson Road, Orient, home of Clarence Thoma 2 p.m. Tuesday.

A telephone tip to Sheriff Dwight Radcliff led to the stakeout of the home, according to the affidavit.

Federal Postal Inspector Thomas Strausburg told the Sheriff that Orient Postmaster Robert Prindle discovered "a green vegetation, believed to be marijuana" in a package addressed to Miss Watkins at the Orient address.

Dountz met with Strausburg, Prindle and Detective Howard Champ and assistants Steve Martin and Dusty Cook of the Franklin County Organized Crime Squad Tuesday morning and determined that the substance found was a narcotic.

Phony 'Paid Pregnancy' Ad Draws Response From 500

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The advertisement read:

"Wanted: Female to become pregnant. Must be under 26, Caucasian, intelligent and interesting. $10,000 fee plus expenses for an 18-month period, plus educational scholarship and fringe benefit."

How many women would be willing to enter into such an arrangement?

Hundreds, says Leonard E. Goodfarb, a Philadelphia accountant who placed the phony want ad last week in the underground newspaper "Thursday's Drummer."

Goodfarb said Tuesday he has received calls from about 500 women and has interviewed about 20 applicants in person.

"The forces of life, the urges that make one want to create life are still present," Goodfarb said. "This is very refreshing after reading about abortions and contraceptives and all that."

Many of the women didn't want any money at all, he said, "and curiously enough, no one asked who the father would be."

Goodfarb described the potential mothers as "very nice and polite" in tone, rather than desperate.

"One said the idea always fascinated her, having a child," he said. "But she wouldn't know what to do with it afterward."

"And another was a wife who said she could use the money to put her husband through school."

Goodfarb told callers he represented a childless Philadelphia couple. The wife, he said, was unable to bear a child for medical reasons.

Later, he admitted there was no such couple.

No Fault Bill Pigeonholed

Move Said Blow Against Consumer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has sent back to committee a bill to establish a national system of no-fault automobile insurance, apparently killing any chance of congressional action this year.

"Everybody knows what this motion is all about," Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., manager of the bill, told the Senate. "It buries the bill, simple as that."

By a 49-46 vote Tuesday night the Senate approved a motion by Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb., to send the Commerce Committee measure to the Judiciary Committee for further study.

Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Marlow Cook, R-Ky., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., argued that objectionable provisions and serious constitutional questions about the bill deserve study by the lawyers on Judiciary.

But, Magnuson countered, the 17 lawyers on Commerce are just as able as the 17 on Judiciary.

"This is a real blow at the

Ex-Sen. Gruening Said Recovering

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Former Sen. Ernest Gruening of Alaska was reported in "satisfactory and stable" condition today following surgery for removal of an intestinal tumor. Gruening, 85, was territorial governor of Alaska before becoming one of the 49th state's first two senators.

He was rushed to Mt. Sinai hospital July 13 while attending the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach. Surgery was performed at the time to relieve pressure caused by an intestinal obstruction. A 5½-hour operation was performed Tuesday to remove the tumor.

The Post said the check ended up in the account of Bernard L. Barker, one of five men charged with burglary in connection with the break-in and suspected bugging attempt of Democratic party headquarters here on June 17.

Surface-Transit Proposal Includes $5 Billion Loan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional subcommittee's plan to aid the surface-transit industry reportedly includes $5 billion in federal loan guarantees for railroads.

The House transportation subcommittee agreed Tuesday on a bill which sources said contains new financial assistance and revisions in basic legal procedure for railroads and the trucking and barge industries.

The legislation, which now goes to the House Commerce Committee, is similar to proposals under review in a Senate committee.

The House subcommittee bill is the result of lengthy hearings and extensive subcommittee review. It combines provision of rival measures offered by industry, the Nixon administration and consumer groups, sources said.

Eagleton Praised For His Dignity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas Eagleton has received thousands of letters praising him, as one said, for "dignity and grace in defeat" in bowing out as the Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

The Missouri senator received about 20,000 letters last week and thousands more were being opened Monday as they overflowed from his office into a committee hearing room.

Romance And Lure Of The Sea Ends In Tragedy For 6

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Kim Powell loved the romantic lure, the adventure and the freedom of the sea. For years he dreamed of sailing the world with his family and he built a boat for the challenging journey.

But less than two months after the family and a friend set forth, the dream has been shattered on a reef in the stormy Caribbean, the boat splintered, Powell and five others missing and feared dead.

The tragedy came to light this week when the U.S. Coast Guard reported wreckage of Powell's 50-foot catamaran, the Tapiti Nui, had been recovered near Glover's Reef off the coast of British Honduras.

Missing are Powell, 59; his wife Jo-An, 45; their children, An, 20, James, 12, Gina, 8; and a friend Debbie Gordon, 23, all of Titusville.

They started the trip June 1 from this East Coast city, planning to circle the globe leisurely in four or five years.

An ardent sailing enthusiast,

Powell twice before gave up jobs to sail the sea.

A friend, Bill Nassau of Titusville, said: "Kim was a nut about the water. He wanted nothing more than to take his family and escape from the problems of the world, just sail for the rest of his life if he could."

Powell got his excuse two years ago when he lost his job as a launch director for the Bendix Corp. at nearby Cape Kennedy.

Instead of seeking new employment, he began building

the twin-hulled boat in his backyard, designing the catamaran as he went along.

Completed last spring, the boat had a 24-by-50-foot deck with two side-by-side cabins. Each hull contained a shower, separate toilet and galley so two couples could sail together and "stay out of each other's hair," Powell said.

Under billowing sails, the Powells tested their ship in the Indian River. For windless days there were two diesel engines.

They named their magic carpet the Tapiti Nui, Tahitian for "big double canoe."

A few days before they started on June 1, the Powells showed off their vessel to newsmen.

He recalled two earlier "abandoning-civilization" trips across the waters. The first was in his early 20s when he sailed the Caribbean. Later, he and his wife and a child sailed to the South Seas from California.

"It's hard to turn your back on a good-paying job, thinking about losing things like senior-ty," he admitted. "But it seems like the only people who get to do what they want is poor people." He described his financial condition as "impecunious."

Circleville School Board Prepares For 1972-73 City School Opening

Circleville City's school board met Tuesday for the annual wrap-up of matters involving opening of school Sept. 6, authorizing fees for school lunches, reapproving the dress code and adopting other legislation pertaining to the 1972-73 term.

Charges for lunches will remain at 35 cents for students and 40 cents for adults. The first day of school will be a full day, so lunch will be served in all city schools.

The dress code adopted was that formulated by students, parents and school faculty last spring and accepted for the remainder of that school year. One more item was added, more as a precautionary measure, requiring students at all times to wear proper footwear, either shoes or sandals.

More complete information on school opening, registration of new students, bus routes, teaching and student homeroom assignments will be printed in the Herald this week and next.

IN OTHER business, three resignations were received from teachers and their release from contracts authorized by the board. Virginia Snider, elementary teacher, requested release due to her husband's transfer to Zanesville. Charles Clark, junior high science, asked to be released in order to accept a position as an agricultural extension agent in Ross County and Joanne Gill, clerk's secretary, terminated her employment for health reasons.

Employed were: Susan Miga, head teacher at Corwin; Deborah Shellhammer, BS from Kent State, no experience, to replace Virginia Snider; Karen Rafeld, BS from OSU, one year experience, to replace Charles Clark; Joann Lambert (employment subject to ADC Program approval) BS, five-years' training from OSU, elementary librarian.

Extracurricular duties were assigned to two teachers. Charlene Craig will be faculty adviser to the high school Senior SOS and Carolyn Roundhouse will direct the junior high GAA.

Approval of these appointments completed staffing of the city schools for the upcoming term.

Employment was recommended and approved for three under temporary or standard certification who were not previously qualified: Jean Milburn, temporary; Evalena Wolford, standard certification received; Carolyn Herel, temporary.

Two part-time custodians were hired to serve at Nicholas Drive and Mound St. Elementary. Mrs. Lillian Eggleton and Mrs. Phyllis Schutz were employed in this capacity to serve at the respective schools during the term.

HIGHWAY Patrol completed their inspection of the Circleville bus fleet Tuesday afternoon. The buses are insured under a policy written by Lewis E. Cook and Son Agency which was approved by the board. The premium of $790.05 will also cover other motor vehicles owned by the district.

Robert Liggett accepted the board's nomination as representative to the Ohio School Board's Annual Convention to be held in Columbus. Forrest Brown was named alternate delegate.

An emergency resolution was passed by the board, for the services of Columbus Heating and Ventilating to repair four furnaces at the junior high. After the heating plants were dismantled, it was found that parts for their refurbishing would amount to $10,092. The board also contracted to have the temperature control system throughout the school repaired for which material and labor was estimated at $3,530.

The matter was handled as emergency legislation since bidding the project would delay installation until cooler weather when the heating system is needed.

A contract was made to the Adams Baking Co. of Jackson to provide bread and bakery supplies to the city schools this year.

The purchase of two sousaphones and two baritone for the high school band were authorized. The band's increased size required the purchase of the new instruments from Denver Greenlee and Carl Hawkes for a total cost of $760.

A PROPOSAL to expand the press box at the football field was tabled pending more study. Plans for the expansion were offered by J. Boyd Stout Co.

Two 30 by 48 inch mirrors were purchased from Ralph Ankrom at a cost of $110 each to be installed in the two restrooms at the Nicholas Elementary addition.

Since the school is employing Wanda Matesky as full time school nurse, it was decided that in the best interest of the city and the school system that Mrs. Kirkpatrick work full time as a city health nurse and Mrs. Matesky assume full responsibility of the school health service, working closely with the city nurse.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick had in the past served two days a week at the city schools' employ under contract. The board Tuesday voted not to renew the contract with the city at the present time, but provided to review the operation under this arrangement at the first of 1973.

A petition was presented, signed by residents of the Marshall Division seeking that the school bus serving their area provide pupil pick-up within the housing development and not load students on the old highway 23 as it has. The matter was read and filed, to be investigated, but the board has in the past ruled against the action because the safety of the children was not endangered under this routing.

Robert E. Dumm was awarded the job of removing old tile from the cafeteria and installing new vinyl asbestos tile, on those areas at the junior high. The contract was for $130.

CIRCLEVILLE Schools will once again operate under the free and reduced price meal policy for school children unable to pay the full price of a meal. Families falling within a set scale covering family size and income, or those suffering from extreme hardships may apply for a reduction in price or free lunch for their children.

Application forms are sent home to parents at the beginning of school and are available at the principal's office in the school throughout the year. Information sought on the form is kept confidential and used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

Under the provisions of the policy, the Child Accounting Director will review the applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official he may appeal the decision to Donald Metzler, at the junior high.

The lunch policy provides that there will be no identification of or discrimination against a student unable to pay the full cost of a meal.

Under the schedule, a family of four with two children in school, preschool or day care centers and whose income is $4,727 or less is eligible for free lunches. If the income is $5,343 the family could be eligible for a reduction in lunch price.

Attending the board meeting Tuesday were board president Dale DeLong, Mrs. Ruth Kraus, Robert Liggett and Forrest Brown.

The board adjourned its meeting until noon August 18.

Girl Injured In Car Crash

September E. Young, 16, Route 1, Griest Road, suffered only minor scratches and abrasions when she lost control of the car she was driving and crashed into a telephone pole 1:05 a.m. Wednesday on State Route 188, a half-mile north east of the Dunkle Road intersection.

Miss Young told investigating Deputy Sheriff Earl Kuhn, she dropped a tape cassette on the floor and lost control of the car when she bent over to retrieve it.

Marks on the roadway indicate the car was out of control for 79 feet in the right lane of Route 188, according to Deputy Kuhn.

The car then veered sharply across the left lane of the road for 35 feet, left the road and spun around with the rear end of the car shattering a telephone pole.

After impact, the car flipped to its top and skidded an additional 10 feet.

The car was a total loss. Miss Young was treated and released at Berger Hospital's emergency room. She was cited for reckless operation by the deputy.

Here is a rundown on other developments in the anticancer drive:

Since Feb. 23, the date the National Cancer Act of 1971 became effective, $19.8 million has been awarded for 138 research contracts to both profit-making and nonprofit organizations, including $4.9 million of the $6.8 million Detrick contract. About $15.6 million in grants other than the $4 million in construction grants have been awarded.

Almost completed is a master plan detailing the strategy for achieving the "expanded, intensified and coordinated cancer research program" called for in the act.

Ahead of the master plan, NCI already is moving in some new directions, says Louis Carrese, an associate director.

Among them is a multimillion-dollar program of research on the bladder, large bowel and prostate gland, which NCI officials say have not received the attention they deserve.

Clinical and basic research has been expanded also into breast and lung cancer, which have been the objects of intensive study for some years.

NCI officials say, for example, that efforts are being pushed to automate the Pap test so that more women may be screened for possible cancer of the cervix.

Dr. Gio Gori, an NCI associate director, says the institute is pushing ahead with plans to play a much more active role than before in cancer control efforts nationwide. Plans include establishing programs for cooperating with state and other health agencies in the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of cancer and rehabilitation of its surviving victims.

Cancer-control programs that include public education are to be one of the major missions of an envisioned national network of comprehensive cancer research and demonstration centers, the first 15 of which are provided for in the new legislation.

On the international scene, NCI has worked to swap with Soviet scientists a number of antiviral and promising new anticancer drugs, establish liaison offices in Japan and Europe to foster cooperation in the quest for better drugs, and allocate special laboratories at Ft. Detrick for joint research by American and foreign scientists, including researchers from the Soviet Union and mainland China.

Finally, it's seeking to develop an international cancer research data bank so that eventually researchers in all parts of the world can share their results through a system of computers.

CHS Tiger Band Largest Unit At Rio Grande Camp

Circleville Tiger Marching Band is the largest at the Ohio Division of Camp Crescendo now at Rio Grande College. Its membership totals 160.

The local group left Sunday for the week-long training session for instrumentalists, color guard, drill team and majorettes. This year, enrollment at the camp is 3,000.

Camp Crescendo uses the entire facilities of the college, including dormitories, Student Union, practice field, swimming pool and all other facilities.

In its three years existence, the camp has been a training ground for bands and all associated groups.

Vote Slated On Handguns Late Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has agreed to a final vote late today on a bill that would ban the sale of handguns not suitable for sporting purposes.

One major amendment planned by Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., would exempt dealers from the sales ban with the result that only manufacturers and importers would be prohibited from selling the guns.

Hruska's amendment also would require disapproval by the Secretary of the Treasury of individual models of guns before they would be illegal.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., the bill's chief sponsor, said Hruska's changes would seriously weaken the enforcement provision in the bill. He called Hruska's amendment a key test, and said he didn't know what the outcome would be.

Bayh has emphasized that the bill is aimed chiefly at cheap, easily concealable handguns used by criminals, but Hruska contends it also would exclude the sale of many high-quality weapons that he says "million of Americans want for self-protection."

Hruska said a nightmare of enforcement would be created by trying to hold 160,000 licensed dealers "responsible for correctly interpreting and applying the highly technical and complex standards."

Stock List Still Mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices were mixed in slow trading today, though airline issues spurred upwards.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 2.18 to 950.26. But advances led declines 618 to 561 on the Big Board among 1,538 issues exchanged in rather slow trading.

Analysts said profit-taking by investors cashing in on last week's major advances was holding the market back.

"Frankly, I'm impressed that there hasn't been a more significant correction," said Alan Shaw, research director of Harris, Upham & Co.

"Some of the market barometers have moved to new highs," Shaw noted. "In general this seems to be more of a sideways consolidation than a downward one."

Gary Dean, Circleville band director, reports the enthusiasm of his charges is great so far this week and much is being accomplished. The band, he reports, has three marching rehearsals daily, two playing rehearsals and one sectional rehearsal. Members spend a total of six and one-half hours in rehearsal each day.

The camp instructors have expressed high regard of the marching and playing ability of the Circleville Band.

Instruction obtained by the Circleville band will not only be used in the football season, but at the State Fair competition Aug. 24 at 11:15 a.m. Bands from all over Ohio will be present for the contest before an audience.

Dean says his goal is to make the Tiger Band a "GREAT" band rather than good band.

The Circleville unit will return to Circleville Saturday following a performance at the college which will include four other bands attending the camp this week. The performance begins at 9 p.m. and is open to the public.

The band will also perform at the dedication of the Sugarloaf Mountain amphitheatre Sept. 9, which will become the permanent home of the original historical drama, "Tecumseh!"

The stand of the retail merchants against the movement was termed by Reichel as "not logical." He noted that if a sales tax were an alternative, they would pass the tax along to customers.

Netley claimed many retail operators opposed the income tax, saying it was "special interests here in Columbus" that had the state organization against it.

The repeal backers denied charges leveled by opponents that the movement was partisan, that there was a plan for a flat rate, 2 per cent income tax and that they could, if repeal succeeds, cut pensions for retired state employees.

Max Factor III Gripes Over Break-In WASHINGTON (AP) — Max Factor III, an heir to the family cosmetic fortune and a campaign worker for Sen. George S. McGovern, says three men broke into his plush hotel apartment here, which is directly above Vice President Spiro Agnew's apartment.

He said the break-in, by two Secret Service agents and a hotel security guard, occurred about 10 p.m. while he and his wife were in bed in the $1,150 a-month flat at the Sheraton Park Hotel. The incident occurred July 27, but was not disclosed until today when the story appeared in The Washington Post.

Factor, 26, of Los Angeles said he believes there is an attempt to drive him out of the room. He is a voter registration organizer for Sen. McGovern's Democratic presidential campaign.

Army Offers Intelligence Duty Option

The availability of a new "Special Intelligence Duty" option has been announced by the Department of the Army. This new enlistment option is designed for young men who have graduated from high school and desire an unusual job.

According to Sgt. Don Warner, local Army recruiter, the opportunities under this option are virtually unlimited for those who qualify. Opportunities exist for duty in foreign lands or in home towns.

After basic training, the enlistee goes to the Army Intelligence School where he will receive instruction as a military intelligence coordinator. He will also gain a working knowledge of the operational requirements of work in counterintelligence and area intelligence activities.

Because Special Intelligence Duty requires the handling of classified information, the men who are accepted for this duty must be absolutely loyal to the United States and have the highest moral standards.

For more information about a challenging and important assignment on Special Intelligence Duty, call Sgt. Warner at 474-8525 or visit the local Army recruiting station.

Local Couple To Attend Farm Conference

A young farm couple from Pickaway County will attend a two-day conference designed just for young farmers and farm wives.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce List Route 2, have been awarded a scholarship to the Eastern Ohio Young Farm Couples Leadership Conference, August 10-11 at Atwood Lake Lodge, Delroy, Ohio. The scholarships are sponsored by the Pickaway County Farm Bureau and the Pickaway County Landmark.

During the conference, the young couples will hear addresses from Ohio agricultural leaders and participate in discussions designed to help them become more effective in Farm Bureau and Landmark.

Appearing on the program will be Leonard Schnell, Ohio Farm Bureau president; C. William Swank, OFBF executive vice president; and Dwight Oberschlake Landmark, Inc., president.

Circleville School Board Prepares For 1972-73 City School Opening

Circleville City's school board met Tuesday for the annual wrap-up of matters involving opening of school Sept. 6, authorizing fees for school lunches, re-approving the dress code and adopting other legislation pertaining to the 1972-73 term.

Charges for lunches will remain at 35 cents for students and 40 cents for adults. The first day of school will be a full day, so lunch will be served in all city schools.

Th dress code adopted was that formulated by students, parents and school faculty last spring and accepted for the remainder of that school year. One more item was added, more as a precautionary measure, requiring students at all times to wear proper footwear, either shoes or sandals.

More complete information on school opening, registration of new students, bus routes, teaching and student homeroom assignments will be printed in the Herald this week and next.

IN OTHER business, three resignations were received from teachers and their release from contracts authorized by the board. Virginia Snider, elementary teacher, requested release due to her husband's transfer to Zanesville. Charles Clark, junior high science, asked to be released in order to accept a position as an agricultural extension agent in Ross County and Joanne Gill, clerk's secretary, terminated her employment for health reasons.

Employed were: Susan Miga, head teacher at Corwin; Deborah Shellhammer, BS from Kent State, no experience, to replace Virginia Snider; Karen Rafeld, BS from OSU, one year experience, to replace Charles Clark; Joann Lambert (employment subject to ADC Program approval) BS, five-years' training from OSU, elementary librarian.

Extracurricular duties were assigned to two teachers. Charlene Craig will be faculty adviser to the high school Roundhouse and Carolyn Roundhouse will direct the junior high GAA.

Approval of these appointments completed staffing of the city schools for the upcoming term.

A contract was made to the Adams Baking Co. of Jackson to provide bread and bakery supplies to the city schools this year.

The purchase of two sousaphones and two baritone horns for the high school band were authorized. The band's increased size required the purchase of the new instruments from Denver Greenlee and Carl Hawkes for a total cost of $760.

A PROPOSAL to expand the press box at the football field was tabled pending more study. Plans for the expansion were offered by J. Boyd Stout Co.

Two 30 by 48 inch mirrors were purchased from Ralph Ankrum at a cost of $110 each to be installed in the two restrooms at the Nicholas Elementary addition.

Since the school is employing Wanda Matesky as full time school nurse, it was decided that in the best interest of the city and the school system that Mrs. Kirkpatrick work full time as a city health nurse and Mrs. Matesky assume full responsibility of the school health service, working closely with the city nurse.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick had in the past served two days a week at the city schools' employ under contract. The board Tuesday voted not to renew the contract with the city at the present time, but provided to review the operation under this arrangement at the first of 1973.

A petition was presented, signed by residents of the Marshall Division seeking that the school bus serving their area provide pupil pick-up within the housing development and not load students on the old highway 23 as it has. The matter was read and filed, to be investigated, but the board has in the past ruled against the action because the safety of the children was not endangered under this routing.

Robert E. Dumm was awarded the job of removing old tile from the cafeteria and adjoining hall area and installing new vinyl asbestos tile on those areas at the junior high. The contract was for $130.

CIRCLEVILLE Schools will once again operate under the free and reduced price meal policy for school children unable to pay the full price of a meal. Families falling within a set scale covering family size and income, or those suffering from extreme hardships may apply for a reduction in price or free lunch for their children.

Application forms are sent home to parents at the beginning of school and are available at the principal's office in the school throughout the year. Information sought on the form is kept confidential and used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

Under the provisions of the policy, the Child Accounting Director will review the applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official he may appeal the decision to Donald Metzler, at the junior high.

The lunch policy provides that there will be no identification of or discrimination against a student unable to pay the full cost of a meal.

Under the schedule, a family of four with two children in school, preschool or day care centers and whose income is $4,727 or less is eligible for free lunches. If the income is $5,343 the family could be eligible for a reduction in lunch price.

Attending the board meeting Tuesday were board president Dale DeLong, Mrs. Ruth Kraus, Robert Liggett and Forrest Brown.

The board adjourned its meeting until noon August 18.

HIGHWAY Patrol completed their inspection of the Circleville bus fleet Tuesday afternoon. The buses are insured under a policy written by Lewis E. Cook and Son Agency which was approved by the board. The premium of $790.05 will also cover other motor vehicles owned by the district.

Robert Liggett accepted the board's nomination as representative to the Ohio School Board's Annual Convention to be held in Columbus. Forrest Brown was named alternate delegate.

An emergency resolution was passed by the board, for the services of Columbus Heating and Ventilating to repair four furnaces at the junior high. After the heating plants were dismantled, it was found that parts for their refurbishing would amount to $10,092. The board also contracted to have the temperature control system throughout the school repaired for which material and labor was estimated at $3,530.

The matter was handled as emergency legislation since bidding the project would delay installation until cooler weather when the heating system is needed.

A contract was made to the Adams Baking Co. of Jackson to provide bread and bakery supplies to the city schools this year.

The purchase of two sousaphones and two baritone horns for the high school band were authorized. The band's increased size required the purchase of the new instruments from Denver Greenlee and Carl Hawkes for a total cost of $760.

Girl Injured In Car Crash

September E. Young, 16, Route 1, Griest Road, suffered only minor scratches and abrasions when she lost control of the car she was driving and crashed into a telephone pole 1:05 a.m. Wednesday on State Route 188, a half-mile north east of the Dunkle Road intersection.

Miss Young told investigating Deputy Sheriff Earl Kuhn, she dropped a tape cassette on the floor and lost control of the car when she bent over to retrieve it.

Marks on the roadway indicate the car was out of control for 79 feet in the right lane of Route 188, according to Deputy Kuhn.

The car then veered sharply across the left lane of the road for 35 feet, left the road and spun around with the rear end of the car shattering a telephone pole.

After impact, the car flipped to its top and skidded an additional 10 feet.

The car was a total loss. Miss Young was treated and released at Berger Hospital's emergency room. She was cited for reckless operation by the deputy.

Here is a rundown on other developments in the anticancer drive:

Since Feb. 23, the date the National Cancer Act of 1971 became effective, $19.8 million has been awarded for 138 research contracts to both profit-making and nonprofit organizations, including $4.9 million of the $6.8 million Detrick contract. About $15.6 million in grants other than the $44 million in construction grants have been awarded.

Almost completed is a master plan detailing the strategy for achieving the "expanded, intensified and coordinated cancer research program" called for in the act.

Ahead of the master plan, NCI already is moving in some new directions, says Louis Carrese, an associate director.

Among them is a multimillion-dollar program of research in the bladder, large bowel and prostate gland, which NCI officials say have not received the attention they deserve.

Clinical and basic research has been expanded also into breast and lung cancer, which have been the objects of intensive study for some years.

NCI officials say, for example, that efforts are being pushed to automate the Pap test so that more women may be screened for possible cancer of the cervix.

Dr. Gio Gori, an NCI associate director, says the institute is pushing ahead with plans to play a much more active role than before in cancer control efforts nationwide. Plans include establishing programs for cooperating with state and other health agencies in the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of cancer and rehabilitation of its surviving victims.

Cancer-control programs that include public education are to be one of the major missions of an envisioned national network of comprehensive cancer research and demonstration centers, the first 15 of which are provided for in the new legislation.

On the international scene, NCI has worked to swap with Soviet scientists a number of viruses and promising new anticancer drugs, establish liaison offices in Japan and Europe to foster cooperation in the quest for better drugs, and allocate special laboratories at Ft. Detrick for joint research by American and foreign scientists, including researchers from the Soviet Union and mainland China.

Finally, it's seeking to develop an international cancer research data bank so that eventually researchers in all parts of the world can share their results through a system of computers.

CHS Tiger Band Largest Unit At Rio Grande Camp

Circleville Tiger Marching Band is the largest at the Ohio Division of Camp Crescendo now at Rio Grande College. Its membership totals 160.

The local group left Sunday for the week-long training session for instrumentalists, color guard, drill team and majorettes. This year, enrollment at the camp is 3,000.

Camp Crescendo uses the entire facilities of the college, including dormitories, Student Union, practice field, swimming pool and all other facilities.

In its three years existence, the camp has been a training ground for bands and all associated groups.

Vote Slated On Handguns Late Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has agreed to a final vote late today on a bill that would ban the sale of handguns not suitable for sporting purposes.

One major amendment planned by Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., would exempt dealers from the sales ban with the result that only manufacturers and importers would be prohibited from selling the guns.

Hruska's amendment also would require disapproval by the Secretary of the Treasury of individual models of guns before they would be illegal.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., the bill's chief sponsor, said Hruska's changes would seriously weaken the enforcement provision in the bill. He called Hruska's amendment a key test, and said he didn't know what the outcome would be.

Bayh has emphasized that the bill is aimed chiefly at cheap, easily concealable handguns used by criminals, but Hruska contends it also would exclude the sale of many high-quality weapons that he says "million of Americans want for self-protection."

Hruska said a nightmare of enforcement would be created by trying to hold 160,000 licensed dealers "responsible for correctly interpreting and applying the highly technical and complex standards."

Stock List Still Mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices were mixed in slow trading today, though airline issues spurred upward.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 2.18 to 950.26. But advances led declines 618 to 561 on the Big Board among 1,538 issues exchanged in rather slow trading.

Analysts said profit-taking by investors cashing in on last week's major advances was holding the market back.

"Frankly, I'm impressed that there hasn't been a more significant correction," said Alan Shaw, research director of Harris, Upham & Co.

"Some of the market barometers have moved to new highs," Shaw noted. "In general this seems to be more of a sideways consolidation than a downward one."

Joi Lansing Dies

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Movie actress Joi Lansing, 43, a blonde bombshell who became familiar to television viewers as Shirley Swanson on "Love That Bob" with Robert Cummings, died Monday of cancer. Some of her movie credits were "The Brave One," "Hole in the Head" and "Who Was That Lady?"

Gary Dean, Circleville band director, reports the enthusiasm of his charges is great so far this week and much is being accomplished. The band, he reports, has three marching rehearsals daily, two playing rehearsals and one sectional rehearsal. Members spend a total of six and one-half hours in rehearsal each day.

The camp instructors have expressed high regard of the marching and playing ability of the Circleville Band.

Instruction obtained by the Circleville band will not only be used in the football season, but at the State Fair competition Aug. 24 at 11:15 a.m. Bands from all over Ohio will be present for the contest before an audience.

Dean says his goal is to make the Tiger Band a "GREAT" band rather than good band.

The Circleville unit will return to Circleville Saturday following a performance at the college which will include four other bands attending the camp this week. The performance begins at 9 p.m. and is open to the public.

The band will also perform at the dedication of the Sugarloaf Mountain amphitheatre Sept. 9, which will become the permanent home of the original historical drama, "Tecumseh!"

Fire, Explosions Rip Tank Farm

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP) — A 30,000 gallon tank was hurled 300 feet into the air during a raging fire at a Los Angeles harbor tank farm.

"It was one of the most awesome things I've ever seen," said Police Sgt. Albert Lugo.

The tank went up during a three-hour blaze Tuesday night that destroyed 20 tanks containing solvents and acetates. Firemen estimated damage at $500,000.

London Firemen Flush Gasoline

LONDON, Ohio (AP)—Firemen manned pumps and washed down the ground here after an estimated several thousand gallons of gasoline leaked from a bulk storage tank today.

Fire Chief Richard Minner said the critical fire danger was past although firemen stood by as the remaining fuel was pumped from the tank at Barnhart Firestone's bulk storage plant.

Important Meeting Set For WHS Band

Director Jim Kibby announces a very important meeting Thursday evening for members of the Westfall High School band.

The practice and combined meeting is slated for 7-9 p.m. at the high school. All members are to attend as important matters pertaining to the Aug. 20-26 band camp at Wilmington will be discussed.

Band birthday calendars for the 1972-73 school year are also in and will be distributed at this session.

Tax Repeal . . .

The stand of the retail merchants against the movement was termed by Reichel as "not logical." He noted that if a sales tax were an alternative, they would pass the tax along to customers.

Netzey claimed many retail operators opposed the income tax, saying it was "special interests here in Columbus" that had the state organization against it.

The repeal backers denied charges leveled by opponents that the movement was partisan, that there was a plan for a flat rate, 2 per cent income tax and that they could, if repeal succeeds, cut pensions for retired state employees.

According to Dountz statements, Miss Watkins met the mailman on the house's lane at 1:45 p.m. and took the package to her camper bus at the rear of the house.

Dountz and Champ surrounded the camper where they found Miss Watkins and Warneke fixing the marijuana in homemade pipe.

Strausburg searched the house, but found no one. He apprehended Thompson walking from the building.

Dountz said he found seeds in the house, along with cigarette holders, another homemade pipe and an egg carton filled with soil and seeds apparently to cultivate marijuana.

Man Pleads Guilty To 7 Deaths

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — James Anderson, 30, of Youngstown pleaded guilty Tuesday to seven charges of vehicular homicide in connection with a freak accident last November in downtown Youngstown.

The seven were killed, police said, when Anderson's car rammed into a crowd of shoppers during the noon hour.

Sentencing was delayed pending a probation report. An earlier trial for Anderson resulted in a hung jury.

Easing On Pill Pushing

Three major drug companies have informed a group named Action for Children's Television that they will stop advertising children's vitamins on television programs for children.

Usually, advertising is directed at the person who makes the decision to buy. But there is also advertising — like that on children's TV programs — that is directed at persons who could generate pressure on the decision maker.

The decision of three drug companies does not mean, of course, that there won't be any more drug advertising on children's television programs. An aide for ACT said it is going to appeal to the regulatory agencies to "set rules immediately to eliminate all advertising on children's programs."

If ACT insists on a total ban on commercials on children's programs it is likely to run into philosophical as well as economic arguments. What is wrong with commercials for toys, for example?

In pressing for a no-commercial programming, ACT would seem to be siding with those who abhor commercials altogether and who would prefer an arrangement that doesn't break up the continuity of a program frequently with a message from its sponsor. The reasoning behind this is more esthetic than protective.

A Federal Communications Commission study reports that in 1970 advertisers spent nearly $75 million on weekend children's shows (which is when the vast majority of such programs are shown). If all commercials are banned on children's programs, then who is going to finance those programs?

Soviet Starts To Buy

With the first orders placed for American grain under the recently concluded $750 million agreement between Moscow and Washington, it seems obvious the Russians will arrange for shipment as soon as possible.

The first wheat order is scheduled for clearance beginning in several weeks and continuing through next May. The initial orders for wheat and corn combined total more than 10 percent of the value of the original agreement. This has increased speculation that total purchases by the USSR may exceed current estimates over the three-year period of the agreement.

Only one hitch has developed so far. Australia has complained about the credit terms extended by the U.S. The Russians must pay cash on the barrel-head when they buy down under.

Memo To General Giap

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
I haven't any inside track to the Paris peace talks, but if history is indeed to repeat itself there will be an end to North Vietnamese recalcitrance before very long.

The tipoff to the end of the Korean War came when President Dwight Eisenhower let it be conveyed to the Communists through a neutral embassy that he had the power to finish off North Korea in a day. So what are we to deduce from the fact that Richard Nixon, who not only collects elephants but has the memory of one, remarked, apropos his restraint in the matter of damaging the North Vietnamese dikes, that the U.S. could, if it chose, finish off North Vietnam in a day?

Presidents don't say portentous things like that for no reason. Wasn't the Nixon statement a signal to Hanoi that, if peace doesn't come before October, the U.S. might have to deliver a really crunching blow before the November election?

The fact is that one B-52, loaded to the gunwales with laser-guided bombs, could practically drown North Vietnam's working areas in a single extended sortie. The proof of this lies in the photographs that the Pentagon considered releasing when UN Secretary General Kurt Waldheim was passing along the Hanoi-inspired accusation that the U.S. had been bombing dikes and dams without concern for the ecological and civilian damage that might result. Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird finally decided against letting the pictures out, but those who have seen them are amazed at the surgical precision of the "smart" bomb, which is so accurate that it can take out a single fixture in a power plant adjacent to a dam without disturbing the dam itself. If shifted to conscious dam and dike busting, a few well-placed bombs could easily put the North Vietnamese military economy out of existence within the time-span specified by Richard Nixon.

This is not to say that Nixon would like to drown a country. He probably has a more restrained strategy in mind that could end the war in, say, a week.

Like it or not, the fact that we have been compelled to use bombing as a counter measure to General Giap's stupid invasion strategy has given us a magnificent opportunity to show the totalitarians that we have what it takes to prevail in any war short of a big atomic blow-off. An item in Aviation Week and Space Technology for July 24 quotes Air Force Secretary Robert C. Seamans, Jr., as saying that one U.S. tactical fighter plane can accomplish now what "twenty-five might have done in the past."

When it was still Lyndon Johnson's war, the U.S. launched 60 sorties against a vital bridge complex at Thanh Hoa and 12 aircraft were lost in the futile effort to demolish the complex. By way of contrast, when Richard Nixon renewed the bombing, eight aircraft carrying laser-guided bombs flew a single mission against the Thanh Hoa bridge and wrecked a vital span.

The SALT agreements, which permit the Soviets a numerical superiority in atomic missiles on the theory that our MIRVed warheads will give us operational nuclear equality, place no limit on the number of long range bombers and tactical fighters that the U.S. may possess. So, as long as we maintain the edge in laser-beamed bomb delivery and in the electronic counter-measures that have allowed us to outwit the surface-to-air SAM's that the Soviets have deployed in North Vietnam, Richard Nixon has a power potential that gives him room for maneuver when it comes to negotiation. Whatever may happen in the late 70's or early 80's if the Soviets decide to press on with their atomic buildup, nobody would dare take on the U.S. in war as of this month or year.

By now Hanoi should know Nixon for the incalculable warrior that he is. He is perfectly capable of telling the enemy he intends to wind up the war during his present term of office regardless of his prospects of winning a second term.

The question is whether General Giap knows enough to come in when it rains — or before some of that rain spills out through the gaps in broken dikes.

THURSDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A confusing set of conditions now exists. If you want to get the best out of today's planetary vibrations, be sure to remain charming, magnetic and accept nothing at face value. Giving others the benefit of the doubt places you far ahead of whatever unfavorable aspect may develop.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are undecided whether to carry through with tasks ahead of you or engage in a new activity, but the former is right for you. Study correspondence, but don't let the hidden meaning elude you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have an unexpected opportunity for recreation, so seize it, since present obligations can be handled better later on. Your intuition is not particularly good now, so don't follow it.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Remain neutral in an argument between one at home and a outsider since you are not sure what it's all about. Keep busy at own tasks. Evening is best for conferring with others.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do your work as quickly and efficiently as you can, and then go after whatever interest you the most. A co-worker is acting strangely, but make no comment. A smile can help.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You are unable to comprehend monetary matters well now, so postpone handling them until they are explained more clearly to you. Show more affection for mate, who also wants more of your time.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take time to become reconciled with yourself so that unfavorable conditions around you do not perturb you. Politeness is the answer now since others are highly sensitive, especially tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are private anxieties that require calm thinking instead of fretting and fuming, which make matters worse. Keep an important appointment you have set up. Good results follow.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are now able to get together with a clever pal who can help you obtain the right results. Engage in personal affairs of importance and forget the monetary for the time being.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't permit a higher-up to deter you from carrying through with certain arrangements you want to make. Work objectively and safeguard your reputation. Show affection to mate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You want to attend an important activity, so do just that instead of waiting on those who like to waste your time. Forget a personal worry. Time will take care of it nicely.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Once your work is done, be sure to see friends whose experience has been similar to yours and gain the answer to your problem. A group activity tonight brings excellent results.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Listening to what an associate has to suggest is wise before you step out to the civic activities that are ahead of you. An associate and a higher-up have an altercation, but you keep neutral.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those delightful young people who wants to learn about everything but may find it hard to get visionary ideas down to a workable level. Teach to adhere to the main principles of logic and perseverance. Then your fine progeny can become a real success in the world and genuine leader in this chart. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Can thyroid hormone be used to lose weight?

Miss A. J., Mich.

Dear Miss J.: The hormone manufactured by the thyroid gland is very complex and is in constant communication with all other hormones in the body.

The thyroid gland plays an important role in the metabolism, or utilization of food. When this thyroid activity is increased by drugs or by supplements of thyroid gland it might be assumed that the metabolism is increased and therefore would be of value in weight reduction.

This is a false premise unless there happens to be a very definitely proven thyroid deficiency. When this is proven by a doctor, thyroid supplements can then be used. It is distinctly hazardous to "trade" thyroid tablets with neighbors who have been given them for specific individual needs.

When forceps are used to deliver a baby does it add risk to the child or the mother?

Mrs. H.O.T., Kan.

Dear Mrs. O.T.: Forceps are carefully constructed instruments which are sometimes applied to the sides of the head of a baby that is being delivered.

Doctors and obstetricians, highly trained in their use, find them to be very safe and helpful. Frequently, when the mother is exhausted, forceps reduce the time of the child's delivery.

No special risks are added to the mother or to the child when forceps are used, unless other complications are present at the same time.

A variety of different forceps are used, each chosen to accomplish a special purpose. Occasionally, redness around the temples of the head of the newborn child is caused by forceps. This discoloration disappears and leaves no permanent after-effect.

I have been told that an icecold shower is not the best way to cool off in very hot weather.

My children disagree. What is your opinion?

Mrs. G. Z. La.

Dear Mrs. Z.: A great many misconceptions have survived about how to keep cool in extremely hot weather.

There are those who believe that additional salt, long cool drinks and cold showers are the answer.

It is generally believed that a lukewarm shower will have a longer lasting cooling effect than an ice cold shower.

After a cold shower the body's heat regulatory mechanism apparently calls forth heat to adjust to the chill.

It is definitely known that there is a tendency to lose more salt during exercise or during routine activities in the summertime.

The overuses of salt tablets must be cautioned against. I have always thought that these salt tablets should be used only at the suggestion of a doctor.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things that make life worth living: The mild elation that comes from making the last payment on an installment plan — so you're free to go into more debt buying something else. Finding in the back of a closet a comfortable pair of old shoes you thought your wife had thrown away. Being thanked by an elderly baby-sitter for walking her home. The joyous sounds of carols sung outside your house on Christmas Eve by a band of roving singers while snowflakes are feathering down.

Hearing the Irish voice of tenor John McCormack rise sweet and clear as a convent bell on a summer evening from a scratchy old recording of "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling."

Sitting on a park bench at 17 on a starlit night with the first really serious date of your life and wondering just what would be the right move to make next—if any.

Getting a job as counterman in the neighborhood drugstore at 16 and learnedly advising all the creaking old people who came in just what would be the best patent medicine to cure their rheumatism.

Finding at 12 your muscles were so good you could let younger kids hit you in your fat stomach with all their might and it didn't hurt. Well, not too much anyway, after you got your breath back.

Warming your frozen fingers and thawing your nose with other ice skaters around a fire at the edge of a farm pond. Did that pretty girl in the red stocking cap push next to you by accident, or is that where she chose to be?

Reading a poem by Emily Dickinson for the first time, and having the half-dazed feeling that lightning had struck you and the whole world was on fire with a new illumination.

By BOB THOMAS

AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Changing habits of television viewers have endangered the golden bonanza that film companies have relied upon for fiscal health: the sale of theatrical features to the networks.

Several movie studios would have gone bankrupt in the past decade and a half if the television hadn't been paying millions for feature backlogs.

In the beginning, there were no features in network prime time. Then NBC took the plunge, and ABC and CBS followed, giving viewers movies every night of the week. Film studios delightedly watched the average price per feature rise from $300,000 to $800,000.

The recession has set in. Industry sources indicate most features now draw only $700,000, some as low as $65,000. The biggest blow is that networks are being selective in what they buy.

"They no longer will purchase any 'quality' feature," Universal executive Jennings Lang says. "They are interested in the kind of feature that is likely to make a good rating."

What has brought about the change in network feature-buying habits?

A glance at the audience ratings tells the story. During the 1971-72 season, a survey of the 32 top-rated movies on the networks showed that only nine were theatrical films. All the rest were features made for television.

The highest-rated theatrical feature was "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner," which placed 13th. The Elizabeth Taylor "Cleopatra," which cost ABC millions, rated only 25th.

All is not gloom for the studios. The networks continue to pay high prices for movies which seem to have a high rating capability. ABC recently bought up the seven James Bond movies made so far. One of them, "Goldfinger," reportedly sold for $2.5 million. Thus United Artists may have picked up as much as $17.5 million for the entire package.

Big money also has been paid for such theater blockbusters as "Patton," "Love Story," "Planet of the Apes" and "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid."

AUGUST 1952
20 YEARS AGO

August's first baby was a daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson, N. Court St. She made her entrance into the world less than an hour after the new month began.

George Van Camp's two-year-old trotter, Virginia Van, claimed a 1952 Ohio speed record at the county fair. She toured the mile in the opening race in 2:12 2-5.

Circleville dentist Dr. William Rickey was recalled to active duty with the U.S. Navy. He was forced to close his office on W. Main St. after practicing here for six years.

Ruby Chester, 15, of Williamsport, rode her big "Champ" to victory and a $10 prize in the finals of the penny races at the Pickaway County Fair. Second and third place winners were David Eakin, Circleville, riding "Rabbit" and Rose Mary Lelst, as "Beaver."

Grand champion steer of the fair sold at 67 cents per pound at the livestock sale. It was an Angus owned by Mary Ann Defenbaugh of Salter Creek Twp.

Barbara Stoer of Monroe Twp. sold her grand champion market lamb for 65 cents. Both bids were considerably lower than in the past, blamed on lack of local bidding.

A two-car crash injured five persons at "Dead Man's Crossing," the intersection of Routes 56 and 139 at Leivestville. Ronald Robinette, of Laurelville, and his 15-year-old son were hospitalized with bruises and lacerations and the youth suffering from a possible concussion. Others injured were from Coal Grove.

Bob O'Brien, coach at New Holland village school for four years, resigned to accept a teacher-coach position at Danville in Knox County.

Building permits were issued to several city residents for construction, small and large. Alfred S. Heeter Sr., sought permission to put up a dwelling at his property on Watt St.; Mrs. Bessie Kennedy planned to have a fence built at her home at 519 E. Main St.; Clifton Motor Sales, E. Franklin, asked to build a sales office on a used car lot there and a paint shop at their S. Court location; Pearl Gray, to build a garage on Fairview Ave.

Eavey's Grocery offered fresh meat and vegetables at these prices at their W. Main St. location. Pork steaks were 55 cents a pound, bacon at 43 cents, and imitation bologna, 35 cents. A jumbo cantelope was sold for 25 cents and two heads of lettuce could be had for 29 cents.

The George P. Hinton farm, 162 acres eight miles north west of Ashville, sold at public auction. The property, including an 8-room frame house, a smoke house, wash house with basement, tenant house of five rooms, barn and attached corn crib, implement shed, poultry house and cattle shed, had been in the Hinton family for 36 years.

Burning Peat Bogs Smother Russian Capital

MOSCOW (AP) — A pall of blue gray smoke hung over Moscow Tuesday, drifting over the city from burning peat bogs about 75 miles east of the capital.

The labor newspaper Trud said the fire covered 2,500 acres in an area where peat bogs are three to 90 feet deep. The paper said more than 1,000 persons with heavy machinery were battling the "insidious fire" but it said when the blaze was extinguished in one place, it cropped out somewhere else.

There was no indication in the report of casualties or amount of damage. The area is closed to foreign newsmen. Trud did not pinpoint the cause of the fire, but said summer heat and lack of rain were contributing factors.

Usually, advertising is directed at the person who makes the decision to buy. But there is also advertising — like that on children's TV programs — that is directed at persons who could generate pressure on the decision maker.

The decision of three drug companies does not mean, of course, that there won't be any more drug advertising on children's television programs. An aide for ACT said it is going to appeal to the regulatory agencies to "set rules immediately to eliminate all advertising on children's programs."

If ACT insists on a total ban on commercials on children's programs it is likely to run into philosophical as well as economic arguments. What is wrong with commercials for toys, for example?

In pressing for a no-commercial programming, ACT would seem to be siding with those who abhor commercials altogether and who would prefer an arrangement that doesn't break up the continuity of a program frequently with a message from its sponsor. The reasoning behind this is more esthetic than protective.

A Federal Communications Commission study reports that in 1970 advertisers spent nearly $75 million on weekend children's shows (which is when the vast majority of such programs are shown). If all commercials are banned on children's programs, then who is going to finance those programs?

Soviet Starts To Buy

With the first orders placed for American grain under the recently concluded $750 million agreement between Moscow and Washington, it seems obvious the Russians will arrange for shipment as soon as possible.

The first wheat order is scheduled for clearance beginning in several weeks and continuing through next May. The initial orders for wheat and corn combined total more than 10 percent of the value of the original agreement. This has increased speculation that total purchases by the USSR may exceed current estimates over the three-year period of the agreement.

Only one hitch has developed so far. Australia has complained about the credit terms extended by the U.S. The Russians must pay cash on the barrel-head when they buy down under.

Memo To General Giap

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
I haven't any inside track to the Paris peace talks, but if history is indeed to repeat itself there will be an end to North Vietnamese recalcitrance before very long.

The tipoff to the end of the Korean War came when President Dwight Eisenhower let it be conveyed to the Communists through a neutral embassy that he had the power to finish off North Korea in a day. So what are we to deduce from the fact that Richard Nixon, who not only collects elephants but has the memory of one, remarked, apropos his restraint in the matter of damaging the North Vietnamese dikes, that the U.S. could, if it chose, finish off North Vietnam in a day?

Presidents don't say portentous things like that for no reason. Wasn't the Nixon statement a signal to Hanoi that, if peace doesn't come before October, the U.S. might have to deliver a really crunching blow before the November election?

The fact is that one B-52, loaded to the gunwales with laser-guided bombs, could practically drown North Vietnam's working areas in a single extended sortie. The proof of this lies in the photographs that the Pentagon considered releasing when UN Secretary General Kurt Waldheim was passing along the Hanoi inspired accusation that the U.S. had been bombing dikes and dams without concern for the ecological and civilian damage that might result. Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird finally decided against letting the pictures out, but those who have seen them are amazed at the surgical precision of the "smart" bomb, which is so accurate that it can take out a single fixture in a power plant adjacent to a dam without disturbing the dam itself. If shifted to conscious dam and dike busting, a few well-placed bombs could easily put the North Vietnamese military economy out of existence within the time-span specified by Richard Nixon.

This is not to say that Nixon would like to drown a country. He probably has a more restrained strategy in mind that could end the war in, say, a week.

Like it or not, the fact that we have been compelled to use bombing as a counter measure to General Giap's stupid invasion strategy has given us a magnificent opportunity to show the totalitarians that we have what it takes to prevail in any war short of a big atomic blow-off. An item in Aviation Week and Space Technology for July 24 quotes Air Force Secretary Robert C. Seamans, Jr., as saying that one U.S. tactical fighter plane can accomplish now what "twenty-five might have done in the past."

When it was still Lyndon Johnson's war, the U.S. launched 60 sorties against a vital bridge complex at Thanh Hoa

and 12 aircraft were lost in the futile effort to demolish the complex. By way of contrast, when Richard Nixon renewed the bombing, eight aircraft carrying laser-guided bombs flew a single mission against the Thanh Hoa bridge and wrecked a vital span.

The SALT agreements, which permit the Soviets a numerical superiority in atomic missiles on the theory that our MIRVed warheads will give us operational nuclear equality, place no limit on the number of long range bombers and tactical fighters that the U.S. may possess. So, as long as we maintain the edge in laser-beamed bomb delivery and in the electronic counter-measures that have allowed us to outwit the Soviets-to-air SAM's that the Soviets have deployed in North Vietnam, Richard Nixon has a power potential that gives him room for maneuver when it comes to negotiation. Whatever may happen in the late 70's or early 80's if the Soviets decide to press on with their atomic buildup, nobody would dare take on the U.S. in war as of this month or year.

By now Hanoi should know Nixon for the incalculable warrior that he is. He is perfectly capable of telling the enemy he intends to wind up the war during his present term of office regardless of his prospects of winning a second term.

The question is whether General Giap knows enough to come in when it rains — or before some of that rain spills out through the gaps in broken dikes.

THURSDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A confusing set of conditions now exists. If you want to get the best out of today's planetary vibrations, be sure to remain charming, magnetic and accept nothing at face value. Giving others the benefit of the doubt places you far ahead of whatever unfavorable aspect may develop.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are undecided whether to carry through with tasks ahead of you or engage in a new activity, but the former is right for you. Study correspondence, but don't let the hidden meaning elude you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have an unexpected opportunity for recreation, so seize it, since present obligations can be handled better later on. Your intuition is not particularly good now, so don't follow it.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Remain neutral in an argument between one at home and an outsider since you are not sure what it's all about. Keep busy at own tasks. Evening is best for conferring with others.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do your work as quickly and efficiently as you can, and then go after whatever interest you the most. A co-worker is acting strangely, but make no comment. A smile can help.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You are unable to comprehend monetary matters well now, so postpone handling them until they are explained more clearly to you. Show more affection for mate, who also wants more of your time.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take time to become reconciled with yourself so that unfavorable conditions around you do not perturb you. Politeness is the answer now since others are highly sensitive, especially tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have private anxieties that require calm thinking instead of fretting and fuming, which make matters worse. Keep an important appointment you have set up. Good results follow.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are now able to get together with a clever pal who can help you obtain the right results. Engage in personal affairs of importance and forget the monetary for the time being.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't permit a higher-up to deter you from carrying through with certain arrangements you want to make. Work objectively and safeguard your reputation. Show affection to mate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You want to attend an important activity, so do just that instead of waiting on those who like to waste your time. Forget a personal worry. Time will take care of it nicely.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Once your work is done, be sure to see friends whose experience has been similar to yours and gain the answer to your problem. A group activity tonight brings excellent results.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Listening to what an associate has to suggest is wise before you step out to the civic activities that are ahead of you. An associate and a higher-up have an altercation, but you keep neutral.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those delightful young people who wants to learn about everything but may find it hard to get visionary ideas down to a workable level. Teach to adhere to the main principles of logic and perseverance. Then your fine progeny can become a real success in the world and genuine leader in this chart. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Can thyroid hormone be used to lose weight?

Miss A. J., Mich.

Dear Miss J.: The hormone manufactured by the thyroid gland is very complex and is in constant communication with all other hormones in the body.

The thyroid gland plays an important role in the metabolism, or utilization of food. When this thyroid activity is increased by drugs or by supplements of thyroid gland it might be assumed that the metabolism is increased and therefore would be of value in weight reduction.

This is a false premise unless there happens to be a very definitely proven thyroid deficiency. When this is proven by a doctor, thyroid supplements can then be used. It is distinctly hazardous to "trade" thyroid tablets with neighbors who have been given them for specific individual needs.

When forceps are used to deliver a baby does it add risk to the child or the mother?

Mrs. H.O.T., Kan.

Dear Mrs. O.T.: Forceps are carefully constructed instruments which are sometimes applied to the sides of the head of a baby that is being delivered.

Doctors and obstetricians, highly trained in their use, find them to be very safe and helpful. Frequently, when the mother is exhausted, forceps reduce the time of the child's delivery.

No special risks are added to the mother or to the child when forceps are used, unless other complications are present at the same time.

A variety of different forceps are used, each chosen to accomplish a special purpose. Occasionally, redness around the temples of the head of the newborn child is caused by forceps. This discoloration disappears and leaves no permanent after-effect.

I have been told that an icecold shower is not the best way to cool off in very hot weather.

My children disagree. What is your opinion?

Mrs. G. Z. La.

Dear Mrs. Z.: A great many misconceptions have survived about how to keep cool in extremely hot weather.

There are those who believe that additional salt, long cool drinks and cold showers are the answer.

It is generally believed that a lukewarm shower will have a longer lasting cooling effect than an ice cold shower.

After a cold shower the body's heat regulatory mechanism apparently calls forth heat to adjust to the chill.

It is definitely known that there is a tendency to lose more salt during exercise or during routine activities in the summertime.

The overuses of salt tablets must be cautioned against. I have always thought that these salt tablets should be used only at the suggestion of a doctor.

AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Changing habits of television viewers have endangered the golden bonanza that film companies have relied upon for fiscal health: the sale of theatrical features to the networks.

Several movie studios would have gone bankrupt in the past decade and a half if the television hadn't been paying millions for feature backlogs.

In the beginning, there were no features in network prime time. Then NBC took the plunge, and ABC and CBS followed, giving viewers movies every night of the week. Film studios delightedly watched the average price per feature rise from $300,000 to $800,000.

The recession has set in. Industry sources indicate most features now draw only $700,000, some as low as $65,000. The biggest blow is that networks are being selective in what they buy.

"They no longer will purchase any 'quality' feature," Universal executive Jennings Lang says. "They are interested in the kind of feature that is likely to make a good rating."

What has brought about the change in network feature-buying habits? A glance at the audience ratings tells the story. During the 1971-72 season, a survey of the 32 top-rated movies on the networks showed that only nine were theatrical films. All the rest were features made for television.

The highest-rated theatrical feature was "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner," which placed 13th. The Elizabeth Taylor "Cleopatra," which cost ABC millions, rated only 25th.

All is not gloom for the studios. The networks continue to pay high prices for movies which seem to have a high rating capability. ABC recently bought up the seven James Bond movies made so far. One of them, "Goldfinger," reportedly sold for $2.5 million. Thus United Artists may have picked up as much as $17.5 million for the entire package.

Big money also has been paid for such theater blockbusters as "Patton," "Love Story," "Planet of the Apes" and "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid."

August's first baby was a daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson, N. Court St. She made her entrance into the world less than an hour after the new month began.

George Van Camp's two-year-old trotter, Virginia Van, claimed a 1952 Ohio speed record at the county fair. She toured the mile in the opening race in 2:12 2-5.

Circleville dentist Dr. William Rickey was recalled to active duty with the U.S. Navy. He was forced to close his office on W. Main St. after practicing here for six years.

Ruby Chester, 15, of Williamsport, rode her big "Champ" to victory and a $10 prize in the finals of the pony races at the Pickaway County Fair. Second and third place winners were David Eakin, Circleville, riding "Rabbit" and Rose Mary Lelst, as "Beaver."

Grand champion steer of the fair sold at 67 cents per pound at the livestock sale. It was an Angus owned by Mary Ann Deffenbaugh of Salt Creek Twp. Barbara Stoe of Monroe Twp. sold her grand champion market lamb for 65 cents. Both bids were considerably lower than in the past, blamed on lack of local bidding.

A two-car crash injured five persons at "Dead Man's Crossing," the intersection of Routes 56 and 139 at Leisville. Ronald Robinette, of Laurelville, and his 15-year-old son were hospitalized with bruises and lacerations and the youth suffering from a possible concussion. Others injured were from Coal Grove.

Bob O'Brien, coach at New Holland village school for four years, resigned to accept a teacher-coach position at Danville in Knox County.

Building permits were issued to several city residents for construction, small and large. Alfred S. Heeter Sr., sought permission to put up a dwelling at his property on Watt St.; Mrs. Bessie Kennedy planned to have a fence built at her home at 519 E. Main St.; Clifton Motor Sales, E. Franklin, asked to build a sales office on a used car lot there and a paint shop at their S. Court location; Pearl Gray, to build a garage on Fairview Ave.

Eavey's Grocery offered fresh meat and vegetables at these prices at their W. Main St. location. Pork steaks were 55 cents a pound, bacon at 43 cents, and imitation bologna, 35 cents. A jumbo cantelope was sold for 25 cents and two heads of lettuce could be had for 29 cents.

The George P. Hinton farm, 162 acres eight miles north west of Ashville, sold at public auction. The property, including an 8-room frame house, a smoke house, wash house with basement, tenant house of five rooms, barn and attached corn crib, implement shed, poultry house and cattle shed, had been in the Hinton family for 36 years.

They'll Do It Every Time

Computer Fights Traffic Crashes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Slogans and appeals to Ohio motorists aimed at cutting the number of traffic accidents will be given a more solid base next month when the state begins a computerized traffic reporting system.

Highway Safety Director Eugene P. O'Grady said the new system will provide officials concerned with road safety with the most detailed information available on potential danger spots.

O'Grady said "This will help with our continuing education programs and also provide the Ohio Highway Department with more information about engineering problems." He said the system also will allow law enforcement agencies to know better where "they should concentrate their efforts" since it will point out danger spots.

Basically, the system involves use of standardized accident reporting forms statewide with all law enforcement agencies required to send their reports to the state for insertion into a central computer.

The new standard form will make it easier to pinpoint intersections which are either dangerous or potentially dangerous.

According to A.F. Austin of Midwest Information Systems, Inc., the forms will also reveal other information not now readily obtainable. Midwest Information Systems is the Columbus firm which developed the new system under a $520,000 federal grant.

Austin said the new forms will "have about 200 information categories" and will include facts about "drivers, victims, witnesses, pedestrians, and other circumstances that most existing forms do not provide."

—Although statewide reporting

systems are required under the National Highway Safety Act of 1966, Austin said Ohio will be among the first states to complete one.

Austin said the computer for the program is already being used by law enforcement agencies for information concerning crime.

Currently, statistics are kept both by O'Grady's department and the highway department. O'Grady said "while there has been cooperation, it has been difficult and time consuming to get the information." The new computer operation will consolidate these efforts.

The Tapiti Nui traveled down the Intercoastal Waterway, riding out Hurricane Agnes in Key West and departing there June 13 for Cayman Island and then two island resorts off Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula, Isla Mujeres and Cozumel.

The boat left Cozumel on July 4 for the southward trek to the Canal Zone and the unkempt rendezvous with young Powell. She was not heard from again.

A Honduran fishing boat spotted the wreckage of the catamaran July 19 but did not report it until it reached port a week later. The crew said they spotted one body that of a girl, in the wreckage but did not approach it. A British Honduran customs ship picked up the remains of the vessel: A pontoon, a cross beam, a mast and a few pieces of plywood. No body was found and there was no immediate way to identify the boat.

"It was not until Aug. 3 when the six were reported overdue in Panama City and we found out about the wreckage that the search began," a U.S. Coast Guard spokesman reported. Powell's brother, Wes, of Melbourne, Fla., identified the pieces as being part of the Tapiti Nui.

Charles Torrey, U.S. consulate general in Belize, British Honduras, said: "It is obvious it broke up, but we have no idea whether it ran up on the reef or broke up in a storm. We have had a lot of bad weather and a lot of local squalls."

On Tuesday, the Coast Guard abandoned the search for survivors, perhaps leaving Kim Powell to rest forever in the sea he loved.

Woman, 71, Under Arrest For Slaying Of Assailant

MIAMI (AP) — Seventy-one-year-old Mattie Davis faced possible murder charges after killing a former mental patient who allegedly beat her and then smashed a bottle over her niece's head.

"I hate to do it," homicide Sgt. Arthur Beach Beck said Monday after arresting her in connection with the fatal shooting of Edward L. Dukes, 30, who officers said had a long police record.

Dukes died Monday less than 24 hours after Mrs. Davis told police she shot him with a .38-caliber revolver that she had purchased for self-protection a year ago and had never fired.

"You ought to be ashamed," Mrs. Davis told Sgt. Beck as she sat in a hospital awaiting treatment Sunday night while surgeons struggled to save Dukes' life. "You policemen should be ashamed for letting a man like Dukes out on the street. I hope he dies."

Sgt. Beck said he had once arrested Dukes on a murder charge in connection with a fatal shooting during a dice game. Dukes was adjudged criminally insane, treated in a state hospital for six months and then released.

Authorities were at odds Monday night over whether Mrs. Davis should be charged with murder.

Mrs. Davis was arrested on a charge of intent to commit murder Sunday after handing her pistol to the first policeman who arrived at the shooting scene.

She said Dukes came to the small apartment house she manages, knocked her down on the floor and kicked her in the stomach several times.

She said when her niece, Bea Moore, 40, tried to intervene, Dukes smashed a bottle on her forehead and began beating Mrs. Moore.

Mrs. Davis told officers she got her revolver, chased Dukes into a room and fired through the door, hitting Dukes near the heart.

Sgt. Beck said Dukes had been arrested numerous times on aggravated assault, assault and battery and other offenses.

McGovern-Eagleton Items Gold Mine For Collector

LIBERTY NY. (AP) — Dutton of Missouri as his running mate the Ross switchboard had been swamped with calls asking to buy.

Useless as campaign goods, the Eagleton supplies suddenly had become collector's items. Ross sold the batch to Friedland at an undisclosed price so the firm could handle regular business — campaign materials with a new set of names.

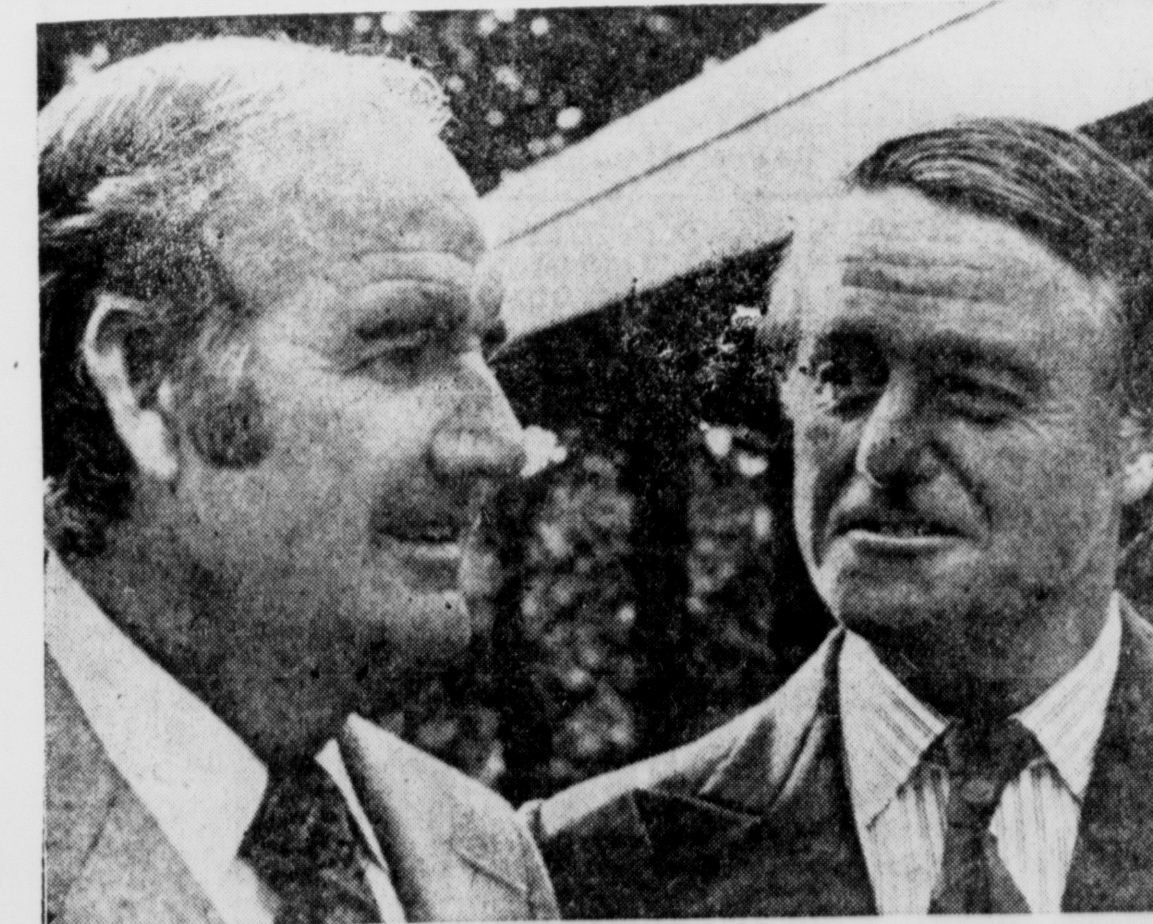

"I'm a collector of sorts," said Friedland. "I took a gamble that it would become a collector's item."

So far, business is pretty good. Friedland said orders have come from as far away as the

Irish Catholics Open Day Of Protest Against British

BELFAST (AP) — Gunfire, explosions and massive street demonstrations gave Northern Ireland a tumultuous day of Roman Catholic protest today against the British internment policy.

Buses were hijacked in Belfast and the border town of Newry. A gang of youths stopped a freight train outside Lurgan and bombarded it with gasoline grenades.

British troops said they shot two guerrilla gunmen in the capital, and three soldiers were slightly wounded.

Several thousand Catholics took to the streets of Belfast at 4 a.m., the hour when the British Army a year ago today began rounding up men suspected of being activists of the Irish Republican Army.

In the year since, more than 700 men were interned without trial, but the roundups did not stop the IRA. Nearly 300 are still held, and the British released 47 more Tuesday. But the Catholics demand freedom for all and the end of the internment law.

Bombs and shots were heard in the Ballymurphy, New Lodge and Andersonstown districts of Belfast. The army said troops fired at and hit a gunman in Andersonstown, but the crowd dragged him away.

A mob tried to storm a police and army post in the Springfield Road, and a machinegun burst sprayed its sandbag emplacements. The rioters tried to ram the sandbags with a crane but the troops drove them off with rubber bullets.

In the Falls Road, another major Catholic precinct, rioters dragged three buses and a truck across the street and set them ablaze.

Meanwhile, Britain's administrator for Northern Ireland, William Whitelaw, hurried to London to confer with Prime Minister Edward Heath after two days of talks with leaders of the Social Democratic and Labor Party, or SDLP, the party of Northern Ireland's moderate Catholics.

Whitelaw said he would meet with the SDLP leaders again Friday.

2 Men Indicted In Holdup-Slaying

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cuyahoga County grand jury Tuesday indicted two Cleveland men in connection with the supermarket slaying of Brinks Inc. guard Harold Baddeley last month.

Indicted on charges of first-degree murder and armed robbery were Daniel Behrman 34, and Jack Simpson, 39. The two are being held on $100,000 bond each.

The slaying occurred at the Fisher-Fazio-Costa supermarket at Memphis Avenue and Fulton Road on Cleveland's West Side.

Auto Engineer Hits Cleanup Cost

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A General Motors Corp. engineer said Tuesday the industry is on the threshold of reducing auto emissions "so much they soon will cease to be a significant source of air pollution."

Albert Lucas, staff engineer at the GM Tech Center in Warren, Mich., told a gathering of GM dealers and civic leaders he does not believe there is any need for reducing emissions to the federal government, by 1975-76.

He said government ordered auto emission controls will do little to improve the air and will cost Ohioans alone $200 million in 1975.

Draw Is Expected In Chess Contest

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Bobby Fischer and Boris Spassky were expected to end the 12th game of their world chess championship match in a draw after resuming the adjourned game this afternoon.

A draw would leave Fischer's two-point lead in the competition unchanged. The score at the start of the 11th game was 6½-4½, with Spassky needing 12 points to retain his title and the American challenger needing 12 to win it.

Computer Fights Traffic Crashes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Slogans and appeals to Ohio motorists aimed at cutting the number of traffic accidents will be given a more solid base next month when the state begins a computerized traffic reporting system.

Highway Safety Director Eugene P. O'Grady said the new system will provide officials concerned with road safety with the most detailed information available on potential danger spots.

O'Grady said "This will help with our continuing education programs and also provide the Ohio Highway Department with more information about engineering problems." He said the system also will allow law enforcement agencies to know better where "they should concentrate their efforts" since it will point out danger spots.

Basically, the system involves use of standardized accident reporting forms statewide with all law enforcement agencies required to send their reports to the state for inclusion into a central computer.

The new standard form will make it easier to pinpoint intersections which are either dangerous or potentially dangerous.

According to A.F. Austin of Midwest Information Systems, Inc., the forms will also reveal other information not now readily obtainable. Midwest Information Systems is the Columbus firm which developed the new system under a $520,000 federal grant.

Austin said the new forms will "have about 200 information categories" and will include facts about "drivers, victims, witnesses, pedestrians, and other circumstances that most existing forms do not provide."

Although statewide reporting

systems are required under the National Highway Safety Act of 1966, Austin said Ohio will be among the first states to complete one.

Austin said the computer for the program is already being used by law enforcement agencies for information concerning crime.

Currently, statistics are kept both by O'Grady's department and the highway department. O'Grady said "while there has been cooperation, it has been difficult and time consuming to get the information." The new computer operation will consolidate these efforts.

Asked if she felt the trip would be dangerous, she replied: "How can we drown? All my family walks on water."

The nonfamily member of the group, Debbie Gordon, was a girl friend of Powell's oldest son, Kim, 25, stationed with the Army in Germany. The younger Powell is to be discharged this month and he was to have joined the cruise in the Panama Canal Zone.

The Tapiti Nui traveled down the Intercoastal Waterway, riding out Hurricane Agnes in Key West and departing there June 12 for Cayman Island and then two island resorts off Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula, Isla Mujeres and Cozumel.

The boat left Cozumel on July 4 for the southward trek to the Canal Zone and the unkept rendezvous with young Powell. She was not heard from again.

A Honduran fishing boat spotted the wreckage of the catamaran July 19 but did not report it until it reached port a week later. The crew said they spotted one body that of a girl, in the wreckage but did not approach it. A British Honduran customs ship picked up the remains of the vessel: A pontoon, a cross beam, a mast and a few pieces of plywood. No body was found and there was no immediate way to identify the boat.

"It was not until Aug. 3 when the six were reported overdue in Panama City and we found out about the wreckage that the search began," a U.S. Coast Guard spokesman reported. Powell's brother, Wes, of Melbourne, Fla., identified the pieces as being part of the Tapiti Nui.

Charles Torrey, U.S. consulate general in Belize, British Honduras, said: "It is obvious it broke up, but we have no idea whether it ran up on the reef or broke up in a storm. We have had a lot of bad weather and a lot of local squalls."

On Tuesday, the Coast Guard abandoned the search for survivors, perhaps leaving Kim Powell to rest forever in the sea he loved.

Small flowerettes of lace bordered the skirt and train. The matching train was attached at the waistline and flowed to chapel length. The shoulder length veil of illusion was gathered to a cap of seed pearls and iridescent beaded petals. The bride's only jewelry was a silver and pearl lavelier, belonging to the bridegroom's grandmother. The bride carried a bouquet of daisies and stephenotis, centered with an orchid glamelia and surrounded with purple star flowers.

The maid of honor, Miss Pamela O'Keefe, and the bridesmaid, Miss Cathy Goldhardt, sister of the bridegroom, wore identical gowns of lavender sheer crepe, featuring sheer bodices and long, full sleeves. The bodices and sleeves were edged in embroidered nosegays and matched the grosgrain ribbon belting. Lavender straw hats banded in white tulle completed their ensembles. The attendants carried starlight colonial bouquets of orchid glamelia, baby's breath, and purple star flowers and daisies.

Mr. Aaron Goodman of Cleveland was best man and Mr. Marvin Schmehl of Columbus, performed the usher's duty.

The bride's mother chose a pink double knit street length dress with matching jacket edged in silver beading. With this she wore pink accessories. The bridegroom's mother selected a blue linen street

MR. AND MRS. SAMUEL LEE JOHNSON

Kinser-Johnson Rites Read

White lace trimmed the white satin gown Miss Diane Elizabeth Kinser selected for her marriage to Mr. Samuel Lee Johnson at 7:30 p.m. July 21st in St. John's United Methodist Church of Stoutsville. Officiating was the Rev. Charles Hamming at the double ring ceremony.

The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Kinser Sr., reside at Route 1, Stoutsville. Mr. Johnson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Johnson, Route 2, Amanda.

Music was provided by Miss Kathy LaRue, organist and Mrs. Joyce Butterbaugh, pianist.

Two vases of red carnations graced the altar. The two seven branch candelabra were lit by Teresa Kinser, niece of the bride and Lori Brown, cousin of the bride.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her floor length gown featured an empire bodice of satin covered with lace forming a high neckline and the full length sleeves edged in satin. The chapel length train was fastened with a matching bow and the bride's elbow length veil was attached to a flat bow. She carried a bouquet of white roses and red carnations atop her Bible. Her jewelry was a diamond and pearl necklace belonging to her mother.

Mrs. James N. Kinser, sister-in-law of the bride acted as matron of honor. She wore a floor length gown with an empire waistline, white bodice and skipper blue skirt and carried a single red carnation.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jeanie Kinser, sister-in-law of the bride and Mrs. Tonya Hayes, sister of the bridegroom. They were gowned identically to the honor attendant and carried single red carnations. The attendants' gowns were made by the bride's mother.

Trini Hayes, niece of the groom, was flower girl in a gown matching those worn by the attendants. Jeffery Scott Kinser, nephew of the bride was ring bearer. He carried a lace covered satin pillow made by the bride's mother.

Mr. Stephen S. Kinser, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were Mr. James M. Kinser, brother of the bride and Mr. Jerry Wiggins.

The bride's mother wore for her daughter's wedding a navy blue jacket dress with red, white and blue accessories. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a royal blue dress with beige trimming and accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of red roses.

A reception in the social room of the church immediately followed the ceremony. The four tiered wedding cake was topped with a bride and groom and trimmed with red and white roses. Hostesses were Mrs. Larry Shaw, Miss Mary Morehead and Mr. Dan Cooper. Miss Tammie Johnson, sister of the groom, attended the guest book.

The new Mrs. Johnson graduated from Amanda-Clearcreek High School and Ohio State School of Cosmetology. She is currently employed at M. Roberts Beauty Salon in Circleville.

Mr. Johnson, also a graduate of Amanda-Clearcreek High School, served in the U.S. Army and is now engaged in farming. The couple resides at Route 2, Amanda.

A special guest at the wedding was Mrs. Callie Johnson, grandmother of the groom.

Exchanged In Grove City Church

MRS. DONALD JAY GOLDHARDT

Grove City Methodist Church was the site chosen by Miss Sharon Kay Boggs, daughter of Mrs. Raymond Boggs, 1333 Ida Ave., Columbus, and Donald Jay Goldhardt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jay Goldhardt, 743 Suann St., Grove City for their wedding August 5.

The Rev. Herbert E. Massey performed the 2:30 p.m. double ring ceremony. Mr. Denver Young, organist, provided a half hour of nuptial music.

The bride was escorted to the altar by Mr. Paul A. Goldhardt, grandfather of the groom. She chose a formal length gown fashioned of slipper satin with an overskirt of silk organza. Embroidered lace panels formed the bodice and small capped sleeves from which full bishop sleeves ended in embroidered cuffs. Two panels of lace fell the length of the skirt. Small flowerettes of lace bordered the skirt and train. The matching train was attached at the waistline and flowed to chapel length. The shoulder length veil of illusion was gathered to a cap of seed pearls and iridescent beaded petals. The bride's only jewelry was a silver and pearl lavelier, belonging to the bridegroom's grandmother. The bride carried a bouquet of daisies and stephenotis, centered with an orchid glamelia and surrounded with purple star flowers.

The maid of honor, Miss Pamela O'Keefe, and the bridesmaid, Miss Cathy Goldhardt, sister of the bridegroom, wore identical gowns of lavender sheer crepe, featuring sheer bodices and long, full sleeves. The bodices and sleeves were edged in embroidered nosegays and matched the grosgrain ribbon belting. Lavender straw hats banded in white tulle completed their ensembles. The attendants carried starlight colonial bouquets of orchid glamelia, baby's breath, and purple star flowers and daisies.

length dress featuring a sheer embroidered lace bodice. Completing her ensemble were multi-colored pastel accessories. Both mothers wore a duet of white glamelias with pink miniature carnation corsages.

A reception was held in the social rooms of the church. The bride's mother wore for her daughter's wedding a navy blue jacket dress with red, white and blue accessories. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a royal blue dress with beige trimming and accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of red roses.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her floor length gown featured an empire bodice of satin covered with lace forming a high neckline and the full length sleeves edged in satin. The chapel length train was fastened with a matching bow and the bride's elbow length veil was attached to a flat bow. She carried a bouquet of white roses and red carnations atop her Bible. Her jewelry was a diamond and pearl necklace belonging to her mother.

Mr. Stephen S. Kinser, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were Mr. James M. Kinser, brother of the bride and Mr. Jerry Wiggins.

A reception in the social room of the church immediately followed the ceremony. The four tiered wedding cake was topped with a bride and groom and trimmed with red and white roses. Hostesses were Mrs. Larry Shaw, Miss Mary Morehead and Mr. Dan Cooper. Miss Tammie Johnson, sister of the groom, attended the guest book.

The new Mrs. Johnson graduated from Amanda-Clearcreek High School and Ohio State School of Cosmetology. She is currently employed at M. Roberts Beauty Salon in Circleville.

Mr. Johnson, also a graduate of Amanda-Clearcreek High School, served in the U.S. Army and is now engaged in farming. The couple resides at Route 2, Amanda.

A special guest at the wedding was Mrs. Callie Johnson, grandmother of the groom.

British Government Opens Wider War On Cigarettes

LONDON (AP) — The British government is launching a new campaign against cigarettes with the chief target the smoker who can't kick the habit.

The Secretary for Social Services, Sir Keith Joseph said Tuesday the government will publish tables twice a year grading cigarette brands according to their tar and nicotine content.

The campaign, which will start next year, represents a slight tactical change in the government's battle against tobacco addiction. Up to now, the main idea has been to stop people from starting to smoke.

Television advertising of cigarettes has already been banned, and all brands of British cigarettes cry the printed warning that "smoking can damage your health." So do all newspaper and magazine advertisements for cigarettes.

Joseph told the House of Commons a scientific team had found that while tar was the ingredient in cigarettes most likely to do harm nicotine was probably conducive to heart disease.

He said smokers who can't quit will be advised to smoke brand with a lower tar yield, smoke fewer cigarettes, take fewer drags, not inhale, leave a cigarette out of the mouth between drags.

Manufacturers may also be asked to print tar yield on the packs, Joseph said.

He said cigarette manufacturers also had agreed to television networks blacking out advertisements in sports arenas before they can be picked up by cameras covering play. For the benefit of people in the stands, the billboards will carry health warnings, and so will movie theater advertisements.

Manufacturers have pledged to see that promotional offers are directed only at adult smokers. More effort and money will be pumped into health education programs to combat smoking and the search for tobacco substitutes will be stepped up, Joseph added.

The Department of Health estimated there would be 8,000 fewer deaths among Britain's 53 million people if smoking is reduced 20 per cent by 1981.

Avco Resumes Talks With IBEW

CINCINNATI (AP) — Negotiations between Avco Corp. of Cincinnati and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers over a jurisdictional dispute involving three electronic devices resumed Tuesday.

The union claims Avco's Columbus outlet, WLWC, has "locked out" IBEW engineers.

Lack of a full engineering contingent and concern about the possibility of picketing at the Ohio State Fair caused the cancellation of the fair telecast.

Negotiations continued in an attempt to head off similar situations at Avco facilities in Dayton and Indianapolis, where contracts have already expired, and WLWT and WLW radio here where contracts expired Aug. 22.

School Plan OK'd Without Testimony

CINCINNATI (AP)—The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals wants to know why an evidentiary hearing on an integration plan for Fayette County, Ky., public schools has not been held.

The appellate court said Tuesday that U.S. District Court Judge Mac Swinford in Lexington, Ky., approved the plan last week without hearing testimony from opposing sides.

The appellate court did note, however, that neither side in the case made a motion to provide testimony.

Questions Taxpayers Ask

(Q) I have a revolving charge account at a local department store. If I don't pay in full within 30 days, I must pay a "finance charge" based on the unpaid balance of my account at the beginning of the month. Is this charge deductible?

(A) Yes. Finance charges added to revolving charge accounts solely for the privilege of deferring payment are deductible as interest.

(Q) In addition to using my house as a residence, I rent out rooms. My house was damaged in a storm. How do I compute my casualty loss deduction?

(A) When property is used partly for personal use and partly for business or for the production of income, the casualty loss deduction must be computed as though two separate pieces of property were damaged, one business and the other personal. Your loss (less insurance proceeds must be reduced by $10 in the case of personal property, but can be deducted in full in the case of business property. For more information, write your IRS district office and ask for a free copy of Publication 547, "Tax Information on Disasters, Casualty Losses and Thefts."

(Q) I sold some stock recently and had to pay state transfer tax on the sale. Is this tax deductible?

(A) Yes. If you itemize deductions, state transfer taxes on sales of securities are deductible.

(Q) I used my car to drive from neighborhood to neighborhood picking up old clothes for my church charity drive. Are my automobile expenses deductible?

(A) Yes. You may deduct your unreimbursed out-of-pocket automobile expenses directly attributable to services you render to charitable organizations, including churches. If you do not wish to deduct your actual expenses, you may use a standard rate of six cents per mile to determine your contribution. Under this method, parking fees and tolls are deductible in addition to the six cents per mile. Depreciation and insurance are not deductible in either case.

You should keep records in order to substantiate your deduction.

Murder-Suicide At Middletown?

Review Of Syphilis Study Ignored Problem, Man Says

By JEAN HELLER
 Associated Press Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Six years ago an employee of the U.S. Public Health Service questioned the morality of a federal syphilis study in Alabama. The result was an internal inquiry and an official decision to take no action.

Peter Buxtun, who worked in the venereal-disease branch of the PHS in San Francisco, said in an interview that he raised the issue in 1966. In 1969 he was told the experiment had been reviewed and that nothing could be done for the participants in the Tuskegee Study.

The Tuskegee Study is a 40-year experiment conducted in Macon County, Ala., by the Public Health Service to determine the effects of untreated syphilis. Some 400 black men suffering from the disease in 1932 were enrolled in the experiment and never received any treatment for the disease. At least seven died as a direct result of untreated syphilis. Even after World War II, when penicillin was known to be an effective cure for syphilis and the drug was readily available, it was denied participants in the experiment.

What remains of the Tuskegee Study now, and when Buxtun first started asking questions about it, is in the hands of the PHS' Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Buxtun has since left the PHS and recently graduated from law school. He gave copies of letters he wrote to CDC and CDC's responses to The Associated Press.

He said when he first heard about the study, he asked CDC for whatever reports had been done on it.

"On reading them I became very concerned because it seemed that the volunteers were not fully informed as to what they had volunteered for and as to what exactly was going to be happening to them."

Buxtun said of the participants in the study, "Nobody apparently had concerned themselves with moral or legal issues involved."

In 1872 Yellowstone National Park became a national park and the world's first big public wildlife refuge.

They also hope to recruit additional Amish families to help work a 2,500-acre farm at Athens, Maine.

Church and his wife Constance are converts and have just completed the year of trial required of new members.

For the past 60 days, averaging 25 to 40 miles a day, they have been winding their way along two-lane highways, pausing at farms to rest their horses.

Traveling with them is a teen-age boy who joined the tour at Goshen, Ohio.

Church, 32, became a Christian in prison while serving a term for safe-cracking.

 Associated Press Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Six years ago an employee of the U.S. Public Health Service questioned the morality of a federal syphilis study in Alabama. The result was an internal inquiry and an official decision to take no action.

Peter Buxton, who worked in the venereal-disease branch of the PHS in San Francisco, said in an interview that he raised the issue in 1966. In 1969 he was told the experiment had been reviewed and that nothing could be done for the participants in the Tuskegee Study.

The Tuskegee Study is a 40-year experiment conducted in Macon County, Ala., by the Public Health Service to determine the effects of untreated syphilis. Some 400 black men suffering from the disease in 1932 were enrolled in the experiment and never received any treatment for the disease. At least seven died as a direct result of untreated syphilis.

Even after World War II, when penicillin was known to be an effective cure for syphilis and the drug was readily available, it was denied participants in the experiment.

What remains of the Tuskegee Study now, and when Buxton first started asking questions about it, is in the hands of the PHS' Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Buxton has since left the PHS and recently graduated from law school. He gave copies of letters he wrote to CDC and CDC's responses to The Associated Press.

He said when he first heard about the study, he asked CDC for whatever reports had been done on it.

"On reading them I became very concerned because it seemed that the volunteers were not fully informed as to what they had volunteered for and as to what exactly was going to be happening to them."

Buxton said of the participants in the study, "Nobody apparently had concerned themselves with moral or legal issues involved."

In 1872 Yellowstone National Park became a national park and the world's first big public wildlife refuge.

Mysterious Chinese Said Asian Opium King

By PETER O'LOUGHLIN
Associated Press Writer
BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A mysterious Chinese who operates in the mountains of northern Burma, in a wild area called the Golden Triangle, has qualified as the opium king of Asia. Narcotics agents describe this man, Lo Hsing Han, as the first link in the drug chain that ends with sales on U.S. street corners.

In recent weeks, from his sanctuary at Tachilek, a small Burmese town just over the border from Thailand, he has seen Thai and U.S. narcotics agents striking at the heart of the Asian drug traffic.

In June and July agents seized 3,853 kilograms of raw opium, 212 of morphine base, 333 of prepared smoking opium and seven of No. 4 pure heroin. A kilogram is 2.2 pounds.

Judging the value of these hauls is difficult, agents say, because the prices rise sharply the farther down the pipeline it moves.

But the raids did not hurt Lo Hsing Han. He had already sold the drugs to dealers who were caught before they could make their runs to Saigon, Bangkok and Hong Kong for further sales.

Still, the message must have been clear: The heat is on and that may be bad for business.

There are no photographs of Lo, no physical description. Thai authorities do not even know his age, although they have heard he is a superb organizer and a charismatic leader. He is thought to have been born in China.

Intelligence that trickles over the border is sketchy.

But it is known that he operates in that northeast corner of Burma which borders China, Thailand and Laos. The whole area, including parts of Thailand and Laos, is a no-man's land called the Golden Triangle because of the estimated 1,000 tons of opium produced there annually.

Intelligence reports say Lo is the leader of a private army of at least 1,000 men—euphemistically called a self-defense force.

He organized this army with the tacit approval of the Burmese government. It wanted him to help fight Burmese Communist party guerrillas.

Lo Hsing Han promised to fight these guerrillas but informants say he established an accommodation with them, so as not to disturb his trading.

Lo's army is regarded as the best equipped and most cohesive fighting force in the mountains. The Burmese army, confined to the main towns, will not tackle it.

Lo also deals in the lucrative border trade, smuggling everything from truck engines to bolts of cloth into Burma to feed a black market created by the Burmese government's nationalization program.

Intelligence reports say Lo buys opium from the hill farmers and transports it to his own refineries by pack horse and mule caravans. His troops provide the armed escort to prevent hijacking by rival groups. Some of these caravans may comprise 400 guards, 200 porters and 200 mules.

In Tachilek, Lo is reported to have a refinery complex, one of about 15 dotted along the border, where he produces morphine, smoking heroin and No. 1 heroin.

Drug-suppression officers in Thailand would like Lo's scalp, but see little chance of that. The Thais won't cross the border for fear of creating an incident with Burma. The Burmese government cannot act because its writ does not extend fully to the territory where Lo operates. Officials say they plan to keep choking off big shipments when they cross the Thai border. This is difficult because of the hundreds of trails and rugged mountainous countryside. "If he can't sell it because the dealers think they run too heavy a risk of getting picked up on the Thai side, we'll have done him a lot of damage," said one official.

"The next season from November through to February should see him hurting."

Hamersville Woman Drowns In River

GEORGETOWN, Ohio (AP) — The body of a woman found floating in the Ohio River near Higginsport Saturday has been identified as Rita Jean Case, 28.

Police said that an investigation was continuing in the death of Mrs. Case of nearby Hamersville.

Voter Registration Program To Be Held

CINCINNATI (AP) — A 58-branch voter registration program in Hamilton County will be held Sept. 11 through Sept. 17 as a compromise between the Hamilton County Board of Elections and the Cincinnati branch of the League of Women Voters.

The board had rejected the league's plan earlier for 50 branch offices stating they were concentrated in poor sections of Cincinnati and were not convenient for suburbanites.

Fluoridation Plan Fought

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A suit asking a ban on fluoridation in Franklin County was filed in federal court Monday by 20 persons, including 7 physicians.

The suit says fluoridation plans by the city of Columbus to go into effect Oct. 1 are unconstitutional.

The suit filed in U.S. District Court asks a three-judge panel to permanently enjoin Ohio Department of Health Director John W. Cashman from enforcing a state law which requires cities over 5,000 population to fluoridate water supplies.

It also asks Columbus Mayor Tom Moody and City Service Director Richard Jackson be permanently enjoined from spending funds for fluoridation equipment and restrained from advertising for bids on equipment.

The city supplies water to Franklin County points and 11 suburban communities. The suit says residents in the county and the 11 communities have had no say in the question of fluoridation of their water supply and therefore their constitutional rights to personal liberty have been violated.

Jewish Congress Shuns Election Stand

NEW YORK (AP) — The president of the American Jewish Congress has called on fellow Jewish leaders to remain publicly neutral on the candidates in the November national election.

Rabbi Arthur Hartzberg said in a statement Monday that "the record of both Democratic and Republican presidents and parties shows no real division" on the issues of Israel's defense and sympathy for Soviet Jewry.

Cridersville Boy Wins Struggle For Schooling

WAPAKONETA, Ohio (AP) — Jay Logan, a 6-year-old boy who is confined to a wheel chair, will be permitted to attend first grade classes at the Cridersville elementary school
The attorney for his mother, Martha Logan, announced an agreement had been reached with the Wapakoneta school board, which has jurisdiction over the Cridersville school, to permit the boy to be enrolled.

Mrs. Logan recently filed a court action seeking to force the school officials to allow Jay to attend classes. Officials re-

Wapakoneta school Supt. Har-

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Keep The Maid, Let The Friend Go

DEAR ABBY: Several months ago the day lady who came to do my laundry once a week told me she had to quit working. I tried to find a replacement for her, but no luck.

Out of the blue, the laundress of one of my friends phoned to tell me she had a free day and would love to work for me. I grabbed her.

Yesterday I received a call from this friend whose laundress is now working for me.
She said she was disappointed to learn that I had hired "her" maid without first consulting her. She said had I consulted her she would not let me have her because it is a bad policy for friends to share a maid.
(She uses this maid twice a week.)

I cannot understand my friend's attitude. Did I commit a crime by hiring this woman?
She called me. I didn't call her.

Should I now let the maid go to satisfy my friend? And what kind of a "friend" would rather have her maid work for a stranger than for me?

NAMELESS, PLEASE
DEAR NAMELESS: . . . She doesn't "own" the maid, neither has she a voice in where the maid shall or shall not work. If you must make a choice, keep the maid and let the friend go.

DEAR ABBY: One night not long ago I picked up the telephone to make a call, and my younger brother (I'll call him Irving) was talking to a friend.
The first thing I heard him say was, "Guess what I stole today."

I was stunned and heard a little more which I don't want to repeat. I quickly hung up.
I am really stuck now. I'm afraid to tell our parents because they are the type who hit first and ask questions later.
But I don't want my little brother, who is only 11 to start out on a life of crime.

Help me, Abby.
IRVING'S SISTER
DEAR SISTER: Tell Irving
what you heard accidentally.
Then urge him to return what ever he has stolen to its rightful owner. Explain that shoplifting is a crime, punishable by law.

DEAR ABBY: Some people
I know very well called up the relatives of a deceased person to whom some gifts were given and asked for their gifts back.

Those presents were sent out at Christmastime and the person died three months later.
Should the presents be returned or not?

F.S.
DEAR F.S.: The gifts become a part of the estate left by the deceased and need not be returned.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NO

know as soon as possible in order to seek early treatment?
Venereal disease is relatively easy to cure in the early stages, but it can be disastrous if it's unchecked. Make all those calls today!

U.S. Ambassador, Kurt Waldheim Meet

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.S. Ambassador George Bush met Monday with Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

A U.S. source said they had a general discussion of U.N. matters before Waldheim's trip to Peking. Waldheim leaves Wednesday.

Cridersville Boy Wins Struggle For Schooling

WAPAKONETA, Ohio (AP) — Jay Logan, a 6-year-old boy who is confined to a wheel chair, will be permitted to attend first grade classes at the Cridersville elementary school in the fall.

The attorney for his mother, Martha Logan, announced an agreement had been reached with the Wapakoneta school board, which has jurisdiction over the Cridersville school, to permit the boy to be enrolled. Mrs. Logan recently filed a court action seeking to force the school officials to allow Jay to attend classes. Officials reportedly had denied him enrollment because of problems he would have in negotiating stairways.

Wapakoneta school Supt. Harold Dahill said Tuesday there had been a misunderstanding on the part of certain agents of the board as to board policy.

Networks Reject Equal Time Demand

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS and NBC have turned down a Republican request for free television and radio time to reply to Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern's speech announcing that Sargent Shriver was his choice for a running mate.

Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., the GOP national chairman, asked for equal time to rebut what he said was a "campaign speech" by McGovern after the announcement Saturday night.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Keep The Maid, Let The Friend Go

DEAR ABBY: Several months ago the day lady who came to do my laundry once a week told me she had to quit working. I tried to find a replacement for her, but no luck. Out of the blue, the laundress of one of my friends phoned to tell me she had a free day and would love to work for me. I grabbed her.

I cannot understand my friend's attitude. Did I commit a crime by hiring this woman? She called me. I didn't call her.

Should I now let the maid go to satisfy my friend? And what kind of a "friend" would rather have her maid work for a stranger than for me?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: She doesn't "own" the maid, neither has she a voice in where the maid shall or shall not work. If you must make a choice, keep the maid and let the friend go.

DEAR ABBY: One night not long ago I picked up the telephone to make a call, and my younger brother (I'll call him Irving) was talking to a friend. The first thing I heard him say was, "Guess what I stole today."

I was stunned and heard a little more which I don't want to repeat. I quickly hung up. I am really stuck now. I'm afraid to tell our parents because they are the type who hit first and ask questions later. But I don't want my little brother, who is only 11 to start out on a life of crime.

Help me, Abby.

IRVING'S SISTER
DEAR SISTER: Tell Irving what you heard accidentally. Then urge him to return what ever he has stolen to its rightful owner. Explain that shop lifting is a crime, punishable by law.

DEAR ABBY: Some people I know very well called up the relatives of a deceased person to whom some gifts were given and asked for their gifts back.

Those presents were sent out at Christmastime and the person died three months later. Should the presents be returned or not?

F.S.

DEAR F.S.: The gifts become a part of the estate left by the deceased and need not be returned.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NO RAT FINK" IN ALBANY, N. Y.: If you don't want to give the doctor a list of those with whom you have been intimate, at least be big enough to promptly inform each one personally. Wouldn't you want to know as soon as possible in order to seek early treatment? Venereal disease is relatively easy to cure in the early stages, but it can be disastrous if it's unchecked. Make all those calls today!

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to AB-BY, BOX 67000, L.A. CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Nixon Coffers Are Swelled By Donations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Campaign contributors tossed another $2.45 million into President Nixon's re-election fund during June and July, newly filed public records show.

Key Republican campaign committees, complying with a new law, said Monday contributors ranged from wealthy past donors and government employees to thousands of small contributors.

Topping the list for the two-month period were three members of the Pew family of Philadelphia, who contributed $36,000 in all. The family is associated with Sun Oil Co.

W. Clement Stone, a Chicago insurance executive who was the biggest single Nixon donor in 1968, sent along $23,000. The same amount also came from Edward J. Hand of Buffalo, vice president of Ryder Systems, and his wife.

Not all the money came from large donors, however. The records said some $1.1 million came in amounts of less than $100 per contributor. The Finance Committee to Re-Elect the President said it received more than 55,000 individual donations during the two months.

The finance committee and three key affiliates reported they raised about $10 million prior to April 7, the effective date of the new federal campaign finance reporting law.

Donors of funds between April 7 and May 31 were reported during June in the first filing required under the new law. The latest filing Monday was required under a provision calling for reports 15 days before a national convention. The Republican National Convention is Aug. 21-23. No reports for Democratic committees were required at this time.

2 Burglars Open Store, Sell Goods

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — There was a grand opening at the Karl Grohs Delicatessen and it netted $272 worth of sales in one night.

But Grohs was home in bed. Selling goods at cut-rate prices were two unkempt burglars who smashed in the rear door, turned on all the lights at about 2:30 a.m., and offered such bargains as salami at $1 a foot.

Then they closed up shop, taking the profits with them.

Grohs said that when he arrived at the store Saturday morning, he found blood splattered on the floor and ceiling and around the cash register and two white coats smeared with blood. He thought thieves had broken in, stolen the missing stock and had a fight.

It wasn't until later in the day that he got the full picture. "Customers came in and asked how come you're staying open 24 hours a day," he said Monday.

"I said it's news to me. Then I checked the cash register and found they had rung up sales totaling $272. I figure the goods they sold at virtually whatever the customers would pay came to $300.

"Customers tell me they liked the bargains but weren't impressed with the tangle-haired, high-smelling clerks."

93 Ohioans Give Bodies

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A small number of Ohioans each year plans ahead for a post-mortem destiny more beneficial to society than simply "ashes to ashes, dust to dust."

They will their bodies to medical science.

More than a thousand have given their all to the Ohio State University College of Medicine since the practice became legal on a do-it-yourself basis five years ago.

Until 1967, Ohio law did not permit an individual to bequeath his body for educational and research purposes without the consent of next-of-kin.

Prof. George R. L. Gaughran of the OSU Anatomy Department says the medical school has received 93 bodies this year, but will probably need 104.

Last year, he said, 80 bodies were used. Of these, 36 were bequeathed, 38 came from institutions and six were unclaimed.

Views On TV-Radio

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Long the undisputed champion of daytime television, CBS is switching 25 per cent of its programming to counter the encroaching competition.

Network television in the daylight hours may be an unknown wilderness to many Americans, but to millions of housewives, senior citizens and shut-ins, it's an important part of their lives.

It's also important to the financial well-being of the three television networks. It has long been considered a harsh economic fact that nighttime programming produces marginal profits while daytime shows can be real money makers.

Advertising rates for daytime television are based on ratings, and that's why CBS has been undergoing changes to bolster its sagging lead. In January, R. Donald "Bud" Grant was brought over from NBC to serve as vice president in charge of daytime programming. His changes are now being felt.

"Starting in September, we will change our morning programming to include three new game shows," said Grant via telephone from New York. "These will replace situation comedy reruns, which have apparently run out of steam. We're going for the adult female audience, which seems to like the game shows."

The new attractions: "The Joker's Wild," a quiz show with Jack Barry; "The New Price is Right," with Bob Barker ("Truth or Consequences") replacing Bill Cullen; and "Gambit," starring Los Angeles disc jockey Wink Martindale—"the best new game show since 'Password,'" says Grant.

This is a real change for CBS, which has eschewed daytime game shows since the quiz show scandals of 1959. Gone will be reruns of "The Lucy Show" and "Beverly Hillsbillies." "Family Affair" will be moved to an afternoon spot.

Still remaining are the serials—network people don't like to call them soap operas. There are eight of them on the CBS schedule, including the top-rated "As the World Turns," veteran of 17 years; plus the runners-up "Search for Tomorrow," TV's oldest daytime show at 22 years of age; and "The Guiding Light," age 21.

"Our serials are still attractive, and they get the highest ratings in daytime television," Grant said. But he admitted that "serials have declined in audience from what they were a few years ago."

"The reason, I believe, is because of the increased number of serials. Not long ago there were eight; now the three networks have twice that number."

Cool Air Dominates Central U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Unseasonably cool temperatures prevailed today over the nation's midsection—the middle and the upper Great Lakes region.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms marked a cold front stretching from Lake Huron to the southern Rockies.

Nashville, Tenn., was doused with a half inch of rain early today. Oscoda, Mich., was soaked with more than an inch during late Tuesday night and early today.

Scattered showers appeared along the Atlantic coast, over the Central Rockies, the Southern Plateau, the Pacific Northwest and the Gulf Coast.

The Southeast continued warm and humid while the Southwest was sweltering in temperatures around 100 degrees.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 44 at Grand Forks, N.D., to 88 at Dattet and Therman, Calif.; Las Vegas and Lovelock, Nev.

State Purchases Land

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state is buying three more parcels of land totaling 113 acres at a cost of $100,030 for the proposed Killbuck Wildlife Area in Wayne and Holmes counties, according to Natural Resources Director William Nye.

Whippet Race Slated

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Fifth Annual National Whippet Dog Racing Meet will be held here Saturday and Sunday at the 117th annual Hamilton County Carriage Fair in the main grandstand.

Few horses live beyond the age of 30.

Views On TV - Radio

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Long the undisputed champion of daytime television, CBS is switching 25 per cent of its programming to counter the encroaching competition.

Network television in the daylight hours may be an unknown wilderness to many Americans, but to millions of housewives, senior citizens and shut-ins, it's an important part of their lives.

It's also important to the financial well-being of the three television networks. It has long been considered a harsh economic fact that nighttime programming produces marginal profits while daytime shows can be real money makers.

Advertising rates for daytime television are based on ratings, and that's why CBS has been undergoing changes to bolster its sagging lead. In January, R. Donald "Bud" Grant was brought over from NBC to serve as vice president in charge of daytime programming. His changes are now being felt.

"Starting in September, we will change our morning programming to include three new game shows," said Grant via telephone from New York. "These will replace situation comedy reruns, which have apparently run out of steam. We're going for the adult female audience, which seems to like the game shows."

The new attractions: "The Joker's Wild," a quiz show with Jack Barry; "The New Price is Right," with Bob Barker ("Truth or Consequences") replacing Bill Cullen; and "Gambit," starring Los Angeles disc jockey Wink Martindale—"the best new game show since 'Password,'" says Grant.

This is a real change for CBS, which has eschewed daytime game shows since the quiz show scandals of 1959. Gone will be reruns of "The Lucy Show" and "Beverly Hillsbillies." "Family Affair" will be moved to an afternoon spot.

Still remaining are the serials—network people don't like to call them soap operas. There are eight of them on the CBS schedule, including the top-rated "As The World Turns," veteran of 17 years; plus the runners-up "Search for Tomorrow," TV's oldest daytime show at 22 years of age; and "The Guiding Light," age 21.

"Our serials are still attractive, and they get the highest ratings in daytime television," Grant said. But he admitted that "serials have declined in audience from what they were a few years ago."

"The reason, I believe, is because of the increased number of serials. Not long ago there were eight; now the three networks have twice that number."

Waldheim Visit To China Kept Mysterious

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — In the steps of Marco Polo and Richard Nixon, the secretary-general of the United Nations will set out Wednesday for China, his way smoothed by concession after concession to Peking's hard line on Taiwan.

The announcement of his journey, bare to the point of near nudity, surrounded it with the kind of mystery that has always given rise to so much curiosity about that immense land, at once the most populous and among the least accessible of countries.

What is known is that the government of the People's Republic of China has invited Kurt Waldheim for an official visit; that he and his wife with four members of his secretariat will spend five days in the country.

What is not known is which of China's 800 million people he will meet; whether he will get face-to-face exposure to the famous thoughts of Chairman Mao Tse-tung, the usually invisible head of the Chinese Communist party; and whether, like President Nixon, he will wind up endorsing the Five Principles of Peaceful Coexistence.

On Peking's firmest principle, that there is no "one China, one Taiwan" but only one China with Taiwan included, Waldheim's position is already well established.

It is, quite simply, Peking's position.

Waldheim established it soon after he became secretary general at the beginning of this year. He confirmed the decision of his predecessor, U Thant, to deny U.N. press credentials to two correspondents of the Chinese Nationalist government's Central News Agency.

In fact, in discrediting the correspondents and ordering them out of the building in the hurried closing days of his 10 years as secretary general, Thant had given in to growing pressure from the new Peking delegation. In following Thant's lead Waldheim was fending off similar pressure.

Disagreements with the Soviet Union over matters of less moment to that government — Korea in one case and the Congo in the other — forced Trygve Lie out of the secretary-generalship in 1953 and clouded Dag Hammarskjöld's last year in the job, down to the day he crashed and died in the African bush on a diplomatic mission in 1960.

Waldheim bears ultimate responsibility for all the steps that have been taken to disengage the United Nations from Taiwan because he is the chief administrative officer of the U.N. secretariat.

In the United Nations, generally, the Chinese have not turned out to be the bogeymen that they were painted in years gone by by their then worst enemies, the Americans.

In the old days, from afar, they issued demands that the United Nations be reformed from top to bottom and that the General Assembly's 1951 resolution declaring China an aggressor in Korea be rescinded.

Now that they are here, they do not mention those things. They take strong positions, then compromise.

In the Security Council, faced with a popular resolution that they object to, they usually do not obstruct it. They vote for it while recording reservations, they abstain from voting, or they resort to the even more aloof stance of not participating in the vote.

Alone among the five permanent members of the council, they have never yet used the veto — though they once threatened to.

The Chinese, informants said, turned against it when they found out that Nationalist China had signed the treaty in Washington. They feared that adoption of the resolution would involve the council in recognition of Nationalist China as a state, because its signature could be held to make it a potential "state party" to the treaty.

With Waldheim's visit to Peking, he will have been to the capitals of all five permanent members of the Security Council. He was in Washington in January, Paris and London in April and Moscow in July.

Hamilton Youth Killed In Trenton

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Roger Lovely, 19, of Hamilton, has been killed in what police believe to be the first fatal auto accident in nearby Trenton for 20 years.

Lovely was a passenger in a car that collided with another auto just inside the city limits of Trenton. The accident occurred Monday night.

Sirhan B. Sirhan Moved From Cell

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — Sirhan B. Sirhan, convicted for the 1968 slaying of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, has been moved from San Quentin's Death Row to the prison's Adjustment Center, prison officials say.

The move, along with that of eight other prisoners, is part of a program to reclassify all 102 Death Row inmates following a state Supreme Court ruling in February that the death penalty was invalid under the California constitution.

Union Council Backs Lottery

CINCINNATI (AP) — Legislation for creation of a state lottery to support schools has been endorsed by the Joint Council of Teamster Unions representing 16,000 workers in southwestern Ohio.

"We believe in and support our schools," Earl Quigley, chairman of the council, said Monday. "But it is our opinion that the present method of funding our schools through taxation of property owners is outdated and unfair."

"We favor a lottery with all monies being appropriated to the support of the education system."

Quigley said a lottery would be supported and costs of education would be more fairly allocated because "Mr. Average Citizen enjoys taking a chance."

A lottery issue was struck from the May primary ballot this year by the Ohio Supreme Court.

Cincinnati Reds Top Dodgers In 19 Inning Marathon

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ted Uhlaender said no one was going to stop him from scoring the winning run in the Cincinnati Reds' 2-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday night.

"It looked like the Dodgers' catcher Steve Yeager was going to block the plate," he said. "I never knew where the ball was hit, and I didn't see the play develop, but I was going all the way, one way or the other. This was a big game for us."

Uhlaender was sent in to run for Denis Menke, who had doubled to lead off the 19th inning, and after Cesar Geronimo was intentionally walked he roared home on Joe Hagge's pinch-hit

Pedro Borbon, who pitched the last five innings in relief and won his fifth game in seven decisions, said, "I wasn't tired. I was able to keep the ball down real well and was throwing my sinker and slider better than I had for some time."

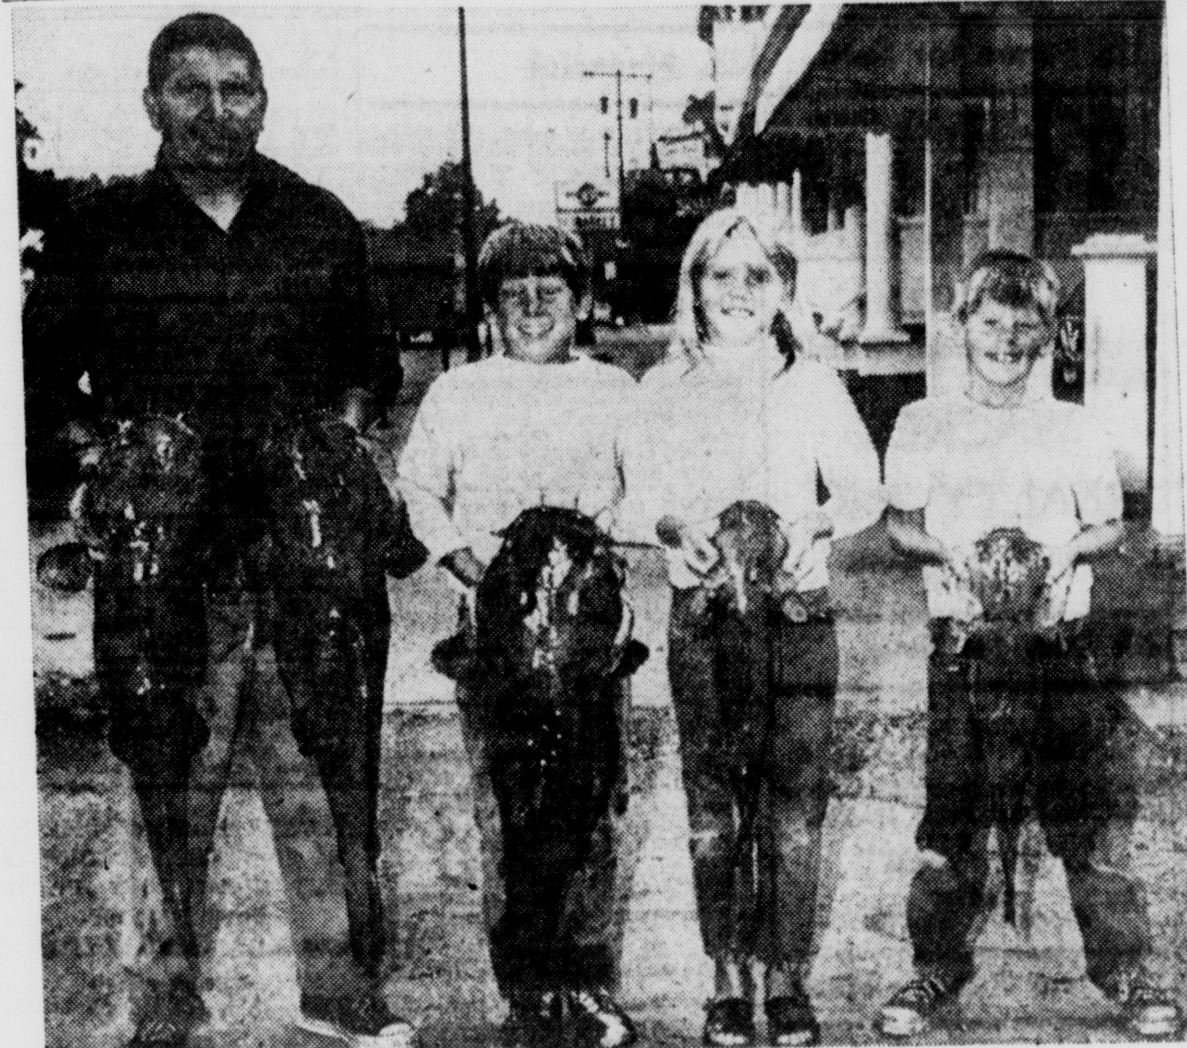

The Dodgers scored in the sixth inning on Manny Mota's walk and singles by Wes Parker and Frank Robinson. Cincinnati tied it in the bottom of the inning on a walk to Pete Rose and Joe Morgan and Bobby Tolan's single.

Four Dodger pitchers, Tommy John, Jim Brewer, Pete Richert and Ron Perranoski, struck out a total of 22 Cincinnati batters, tying a National League record set by San Francisco pitchers against the New York Mets in a 23-inning game May 31, 1964. Reliever Pete Mikkelsen, 3-5, was tagged with the loss.

Dodgers Manager Walter Alston said, "Now I feel tired, nothing else. By simple deduction, we have to win 10 more than the Reds to tie them and one more than that if we are to beat them out. It's about the REAL CATS — The Sam Speakman family, Kingston Pike, proved to be quite a bunch of anglers with this prize catch of catfish caught Tuesday morning in Darby Creek. The fish were taken on a bank line with leeches for bait. The cat weighed in at 34 pounds, two tipped the scales at 23 pounds apiece with the other pair hitting 19 pounds each. Pictured from the left, Sam, 11-year-old Terry, nine-year-old Carol and eight-year-old Ricky.

McLain, Braves Turn Back Houston Astros, 8-4

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I had the old at 'em pitch tonight," Denny McLain grinned—and because of it, Eddie Mathews had his best night as manager of the Atlanta Braves.

"That at 'em pitch—it's the best pitch in baseball. All you do is throw it at 'em and let 'em hit it 'cause it's the quickest out."

For seven innings, Denny had them baffled at the plate, giving Houston one measly hit. Then the Astros caught up with McLain, putting together six more hits for four runs in the final two innings.

But it was much to late, Atlanta had erupted for five runs in the first inning alone and breezed to an 8-4 triumph that gave Mathews his first victory at the helm—and in his home debut at that.

In other National League games, Cincinnati outlasted Los Angeles 2-1 in 19 innings—the longest game in the league this season—Pittsburgh defeated Philadelphia 4-2, the Chicago Cubs nipped Montreal 6-5. St. Louis edged the New York Mets 6-5 and San Francisco swept a two-night doubleheader from San Diego 15-4 and 7-3.

The managers of the contending teams in the American League East are almost as confusing as the race itself.

"This has to be the best for us since 1964," said New York's Ralph Houk after the third-place Yankees beat pace-setting Detroit 4-2 Tuesday and climbed within three games of the top. "We're only two back in the loss column and our guys think they can win the pennant."

"We'll beat them the next three games and they'll be right back where they belong," snapped Detroit's Billy Martin.

"As far as I'm concerned it's between Baltimore, Boston and us—and Baltimore is the one we have to worry about."

"We have the best pitching day in and day out," commented Baltimore's Earl Weaver after the Orioles downed Milwaukee by a similar 4-2 score, "and if we get some hitting at all it should be ours."

Barnhill Tops Hill Nine For League Crown

Barnhill's took the Mosquito League Champion title defeating Hill Implement, 11-8, Tuesday at Ted Lewis Park.

Jeff Bloomfield hurled off the Hill for the Champs giving up 10 hits, walking one and striking out five.

Hitting for the winners were Bloomfield with a triple, two doubles and a single, Mark Tacy with a triple, a double and a single, Brad Fischer rapped four one baggers, Rod Bumgarner hit a double and two singles, Kevin Sowers and Bob Brown both got off three singles and Febes singled.

Larry Pennington fired off the mound for second place Hill Implement permitting 21 hits, fanning three and walking five.

PENNINGTON slugged a homerun and a triple, Tim Woods got off a homer and a single, Jim Cotton powered a homerun and a one-bagger, Rick Speakman hit a triple and a single and Scott Lament and Brian Davis both singled for the Hill gang.

Barnhill's finished the season with a 14-2 record while Hill's record was 12-4.

'Personal Touch' Makes Grid Recruiting

By MIKE COCHRAN

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — "Listen, kid," says the persuasive recruiter, "you play football with us and you get it all ... tuition, board, room, books, $15 a month and laundry."

"Everybody's offering that," replies the schoolboy coolly.

"Yeah," says the recruiter, "but this laundry clears $700 a month." Another kid appears unannounced in the coach's office, says he's 6-foot-6, 240, and wants to play football at Bed-rock U.

"Can you run?"

"Like the wind."

and offered his pitch while the TCU coach, returning, pounded frantically on the window.

"Recruiting," says TCU's youthful mentor, Billy Tohill, "is the most competitive part of the job of coaching. There's a lot of things that happen in recruiting and don't normally happen in everyday life."

He was not eager to disclose specifics, but added:

"Until you do it for a year or two, well ... there's things that happen to you that you wouldn't believe. And some of the things you have to do you wouldn't believe."

is viewed in Southwest Conference circles as an evil mixture of Jean LaFitte, Quantrell and Atilla the Hun.

"Recruiting is the most fascinating business of all," says Texas Tech' football czar, evangelistic Jim Carlen, "it's much more fascinating than coaching football. You're dealing with a human being and you're trying to recruit him, and you've got his mother and daddy, who are more interested in him than anything else in their lives, and you're trying to sell them that you're the best place for him to come, and there's at least eight other coaches doing the same thing."

ness, triumph and tragedy.

Although in only his third year at Tech, Carlen is a long-term by SWC standards. Baylor, Rice, TCU and Texas A&M have now coaches this season.

"Texas is the most competitive recruit area in the world," said Carlen. "There's none like it anywhere. And I've coached in three parts of the country (Georgia Tech, West Virginia, Texas Tech)."

"You'd be amazed. Take Lyndon Johnson for instance, recruiting actively for Texas in

Cincinnati Reds Top Dodgers In 19 Inning Marathon

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ted Uhlaender said no one was going to stop him from scoring the winning run in the Cincinnati Reds' 2-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday night.

"It looked like the Dodgers' catcher Steve Yeager was going to block the plate," he said. "I never knew where the ball was hit, and I didn't see the play develop, but I was going all the way, one way or the other. This was a big game for us."

Uhlaender was sent in to run for Denis Menke, who had doubled to lead off the 19th inning, and after Cesar Geronimo was intentionally walked he roared home on Joe Hague's pinch-hit single to give the Reds their fifth win in the last six games.

Hague said he was anxious before he batted.

"That's the longest game I've ever been in, and I've got to say the longest 18 innings I've ever sat through, because you're certainly get nervous when you're pacing up and down there on the bench."

Pedro Borbon, who pitched the last five innings in relief and won his fifth game in seven decisions, said, "I wasn't tired. I was able to keep the ball down real well and was throwing my sinker and slider better than I had for some time."

The Dodgers scored in the sixth inning on Manny Mota's walk and singles by Wes Parker and Frank Robinson. Cincinnati tied it in the bottom of the inning on a walk to Pete Rose and Joe Morgan and Bobby Tollan's single. Reds Manager Sparky Anderson said, "It took me a long time to push that scoring button, but I'm glad it was finally who came through."

The game was the second longest in Reds' history, and the longest in the Dodgers' history since the team has played in Los Angeles.

Four Dodger pitchers, Tommy John, Jim Brewer, Pete Richert and Ron Perranoski, struck out a total of 22 Cincinnati batters, tying a National League record set by San Francisco pitchers against the New York Mets in a 23-inning game May 31, 1964. Reliever Pete Mikkelsen, 3-5, was tagged with the loss.

Dodgers Manager Walter Alston said, "Now I feel tired, nothing else. By simple deduction, we have to win 10 more than the Reds to tie them and one more than that if we are to beat them out. It's about the same situation we were in last year or maybe we were worse off a year ago, but we're certainly not conceding it."

The Reds' win, coupled with the Atlanta Braves 8-4 win over Houston Tuesday night, put the Reds six and a half games in front of the Astros in the National League Western Division, and 10 games ahead of the third-place Dodgers.

REAL CATS — The Sam Speakman family, Kingston Pike, proved to be quite a bunch of anglers with this prize catch of catfish caught Tuesday morning in Darby Creek. The fish were taken on a bank line with leeches for bait. The top cat weighed in at 34 pounds, and two tipped the scales at 23 pounds apiece with the other pair hitting 10 pounds each. Pictured from the left, Sam, 11-year-old Terry, nine-year-old Carol and eight-year-old Ricky.

McLain, Braves Turn Back Houston Astros, 8-4

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
"I had the old 'em pitch tonight," Denny McLain grinned—and because of it, Eddie Mathews had his best night as manager of the Atlanta Braves.

"That at 'em pitch—it's the best pitch in baseball. All you do is throw it at 'em and let 'em hit it 'cause it's the quickest out."

For seven innings, Denny had them baffled at the plate, giving Houston one measly hit. Then the Astros caught up with McLain, putting together six more hits for four runs in the final two innings.

But it was much to late, Atlanta had erupted for five runs in the first inning alone and breezed to an 8-4 triumph that gave Mathews his first victory at the helm—and in his home debut at that.

In other National League games, Cincinnati outlasted Los Angeles 2-1 in 19 innings—the longest game in the league this season—Pittsburgh defeated

Philadelphia 4-2, the Chicago Cubs nipped Montreal 6-5, St. Louis edged the New York Mets 6-5 and San Francisco swept a two-night doubleheader from San Diego 15-4 and 7-3.

Tuesday night's triumph for Mathews was quite a switch from Monday night, when the Braves were clobbered 9-1 in Cincinnati only hours after he'd replaced the fired Luman Harris.

"The big difference," Eddie explained, "was that everybody on the team was a little more relaxed and feeling a little better. I know I was."

A two-run wild pitch by Don Wilson followed by Dusty Baker's two-run homer did the heavy first-inning damage and Earl Williams homered in the second.

Los Angeles Manager Walter Alston was stoical after his marathon loss to the Reds that dumped the Dodgers, third in the West, a full 10 games back of Cincinnati.

"By simple deduction," he said, "we have to win 10 more than them to tie them and one more than that if we're gonna beat 'em out. I'd say we were in about the same position we were a year ago—or maybe a little worse off." In fact, the Dodgers were only 4½ games back of San Francisco a year ago before falling one game short of catching the Giants.

Although the Reds struck out 22 times to tie the league record for an extra-inning game they got the hits when they needed them in the 19th inning — Dennis Menke's double and Joe Hague's pinch-single for the winning run. Willie Stargell unlimbered his muscles again for the Pirates, bashing his 27th homer of the season and fifth in four games. The three-run shot raised his league-leading run-batted-in total to 89. But he shrugged off his sudden spurge.

"We don't have the type of ball club that has to depend on any one individual," Willie said. "You have to give a lot of credit to the guys who bat in the leadoff spots."

Hutchison Takes Honors At PCC

Jack Hutchison fired a 34 for low gross honors while Steve Compher took low net laurels with a 28 in Pickaway Country Club Men's action Tuesday.

The winning team was No. 1 with 21½ points, Bud Hritz Jack Hutchison, Ben Brian, Ron Berlin, Jim Dawson, Lew Taylor, Joe Smith, Dallas Elliott and Tom Shea comprised the winning team.

With one week of league play remaining Team No. 1 is in first place with 107 points, No. 6 is a close second with 103 points and No. 2 has 97½ points for third spot.

Oilers, Cook Win Slow Pitch Tilts

Circleville Oil edged DuPont Day, 9-6, and Lewis Cook Insurance nipped Hartley Builders, 8-7, in slow pitch action at Ted Lewis Park.

The ace of the Oilers mound staff, Lofting Lester Smith, hurled the win with the slender slammer, Kelly Boyer, rapping a pair of hits to aid the cause.

Rick Sims led the plate attack for the Oilers with three hits, including a homerun. Mike Chelickovsky, Malcolm Wilkins, Gary Leasure, Rommie Leasure and Terry Brannon provided the power for Lewis Cook in the win over Hartley.

Namath Still Key To Jets' Future

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — What it comes down to for the New York Jets—as it seems to every season—is Joe Namath.

Two years ago, Namath was knocked out of action by a broken wrist in the season's fourth game. His streak of regular-season inactivity ran to 19 games when, in the opening exhibition contest last year, he damaged ligaments in his left knee.

But he returned to the field in explosive fashion, coming off the bench to complete 11 of 27 passes for 258 yards, including touchdowns of 57, 20 and 22 yards against San Francisco in the Jets 10th game of the 1971 National Football League season.

Now he says his chronically weak knees are fine and he's ready to play full time. If Namath avoids injury, the Jets believe the spirit that he arouses on the field will give them the momentum they need for a run at the Super Bowl.

But what Namath needs, of course, is men to throw to—and that's where the Jets could be hurting.

As of now, their starting wide receivers are Don Maynard and Eddie Bell. Maynard, a 13-year veteran, holds the all-time pro record for receiving yardage with 11,306 yards.

Bell, starting his third season, is exceptionally fast, but his problem is size—or lack of it. He's only 5-foot-10, 163 pounds. His ability to withstand the rigors of a full season without getting, as one teammate put it, "broken in half," is questionable.

The Jets thought they'd solved their receiving problems when they made Jerome Barkum their No. 1 draft choice.

But the 6-3, 215-pounder from Jackson State hasn't joined the team and is holding out for more money.

So if either Maynard or Bell are sidelined, it would leave the receiving jobs to untested players.

And if Namath is hurt again, it would be up to Bob Davis, a scrambling, roll-out quarterback who started seven games last season, to carry the load.

The Jets already are hurting at tight end, where Rich Caster may miss as much as six weeks with torn ligaments. Gary Arthur, a three-year veteran, is the tentative starter.

Yankees Trim Detroit Tigers, 4-2

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The managers of the contending teams in the American League East are almost as confusing as the race itself.

"This has to be the best for us since 1964," said New York's Ralph Houk after the third-place Yankees beat pace-setting Detroit 4-2 Tuesday and climbed within three games of the top. "We're only two back in the loss column and our guys think they can win the pennant."

"We'll beat them the next three games and they'll be right back where they belong," snapped Detroit's Billy Martin.

"As far as I'm concerned it's between Baltimore, Boston and us—and Baltimore is the one we have to worry about."

"We have the best pitching day in and day out," commented Baltimore's Earl Weaver after the Orioles downed Milwaukee by a similar 4-2 score, "and if we get some hitting at all it should be ours."

Meanwhile, the Oakland A's sank slowly in the West and had their lead chopped to two games over Chicago following a 4-3 loss to Kansas City. Manager Dick Williams growled "No comment" for the second consecutive night when queried about a skid that has seen his club drop three in a row and six of its last seven starts.

Elsewhere, the White Sox held off California 4-3, Boston defeated Cleveland 4-1 and Minnesota nosed out Texas 6-5 in 10 innings.

Detroit's Mickey Lolich failed for the second time to become baseball's first 19-game winner when the Yankees broke a 2-2 tie with two unearned runs in the eighth inning following Lolich's bobble of Roy White's bunt.

Celerino Sanchez drove in the go-ahead run with a bases-loaded sacrifice fly and White, who homered in the fourth, scored on Ron Swoboda's second run-scoring single.

Boog Powell drove in all Baltimore's runs with a single and a three-run homer and Pat Dobson blanked the Brewers until the eighth when Dave May lashed a two-run single.

Barnhill Tops Hill Nine For League Crown

Barnhill's took the Mosquito League Champion title defeating Hill Implement, 11-8, Tuesday at Ted Lewis Park.

Jeff Bloomfield hurried off the Hill for the Champs giving up 10 hits, walking one and striking out five.

Hitting for the winners were Bloomfield with a triple, two doubles and a single, Mark Tacy with a triple, a double and a single, Brad Fischer rapped four one baggers, Rod Bumgarner hit a double and two singles, Kevin Sowers and Bob Brown both got off three singles and Febes singled.

Larry Pennington fired off the mound for second place Hill Implement permitting 21 hits, fanning three and walking five.

PENNINGTON slugged a homerun and a triple, Tim Woods got off a homer and a single, Jim Cotton powered a homerun and a one-bagger, Rick Speakman hit a triple and a single and Scott Lament and Brian Davis both singled for the Hill gang.

Barnhill's finished the season with a 14-2 record while Hill's record was 12-4.

'Personal Touch' Makes Grid Recruiting

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — "Listen, kid," says the persuasive recruiter, "you play football with us and you get it all... tuition, board, room, books, $15 a month and laundry."

"Everybody's offering that," replies the schoolboy coolly.

"Yeah," says the recruiter, "but this laundry clears $700 a month." Another kid appears unannounced in the coach's office, says he's 6-foot-6, 240, and wants to play football at Bed-rock U.

"Can you run?"

"Like the wind."

"Can you block?"
"Like a bulldozer."
"Can you tackle?"
"Like a gorilla."
"Well," says the coach excitedly, "you got any weaknesses?"

"Yeah, says the kid, 'I lie a lot.'"

Recruiting yarns, like fish tales are not uncommon among football coaches, who vow that all's fair in love, war and the pursuit of schoolboy talent.

It is told as fact that a Baylor coach once happened upon a young warrior seated in a car belonging to a TCU recruiter, who was away for the moment. He climbed in, locked the door and offered his pitch while the TCU coach, returning, pounded frantically on the window.

"Recruiting," says TCU's youthful mentor, Billy Tobill, "is the most competitive part of the job of coaching. There's a lot of things that happen in recruiting and don't normally happen in everyday life."

He was not eager to disclose specifics, but added:

"Until you do it for a year or two, well... there's things that happen to you that you wouldn't believe. And some of the things you have to do you wouldn't believe."

An Oklahoma coach conducting a talent safari in Texas

is viewed in Southwest Conference circles as an evil mixture of Jean LaFitte, Quantrell and Atilla the Hun.

ORDINANCE NO. 888 FOR THE ISSUANCE OF BONDS OF THE VILLAGE OF ASHVILLE, OHIO FOR THE PURPOSE OF IMPROVING AND ENLARGING THE WATERWORKS SYSTEM OF THE VILLAGE BY CON- STRUCTING A WATER LINE AND ALL NECESSARY APPURTENANCES, PURSUANCES, AND DECLARING AN EMERGENCY.

WHEREAS, pursuant to Ordinance No. 181 passed October 18, 1970, a note in the principal amount of $30,000, dated May 6, 1971 and maturing on or before one year from the date of issuance for the purpose hereinafter stated, which note is about to mature; and

WHEREAS, the Council hereby determines that bonds should be issued at this time to retire said outstanding note; and

WHEREAS, the Clerk of the Village, as fiscal officer, has certified to this council that the estimated life of the improvements hereinafter mentioned is at least five years, and that the maximum maturity of the bonds hereinafter referred to is forty years;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE Village of Ashville, Pickaway County, Ohio:

Section 1. That it is deemed necessary to issue bonds of said Village in the aggregate principal amount of $33,300 for the purpose of improving and enlarging the waterworks system of the Village by constructing a water line and all necessary appurtenances; that such bonds shall be issued in one installment; and that a note has been issued in anticipation of the issuance of such bonds.

Section 2. That said bonds shall be in the denomination of $1,000 each, except bond No. 1 in the denomination of $1,300, shall be numbered from 1 to 33, both inclusive, shall be dated September 1, 1972, and shall bear interest at the rate of five and one-half percent (5½) per annum, payable annually on the first day of June and the first day of December of each year beginning June 1, 1973, until the principal sum is paid in full; however, that if said bonds are sold bearing a different rate of interest than hereinafter specified, then the said bonds shall bear such rate of interest as may be provided in the resolution of Council approving and authorizing thereof. Said bonds shall mature as follows:

$2,000 on December 1 in each of the years from 1975 to 1980, inclusive, and on December 1 of each of the years from 1981 to 1988, inclusive, and $3,000 on December 1 in each of the years from 1989 to 1993, inclusive, which maturities are hereby determined to be in substantially equal annual installments.

Section 3. Said bonds shall be executed by the Mayor and Clerk and shall bear the corporate seal of said Village. The interest coupons attached to said bonds shall bear the facsimile signature of the Clerk printed or lithographed thereon. They shall be designated "Water Line Bonds" and shall be payable in lawful money of the United States of America at the office of the legal depository of the Village, presently The Ashville Bank, Ashville, Ohio.

Section 4. For the purpose of providing the necessary funds to pay the interest on the foregoing issue of bonds promptly and when and as the same falls due, and also to provide a fund sufficient to discharge the said serial bonds at maturity, there shall be and is hereby levied on the taxable property in the Village of Ashville, in addition to all other taxes, a direct tax annually during the period said bonds are to run in an amount sufficient to provide funds to pay the interest upon said bonds as and when the same fall due, and also to provide a fund for the discharge of the principal of said serial bonds at maturity, which tax shall not be less than the interest and sinking fund tax required by Section 11 of Article XII of the Constitution of Ohio.

Section 5. Said tax shall be and is hereby ordered computed, certified, levied and extended upon the tax duplicate and collected by the same officers, in the same manner and at the same time that taxes for general purposes for each of said years are certified, extended and collected. Said tax shall be placed before and in preference to all other taxes and for the full amount thereof. The funds derived from said tax levies hereby required shall be placed in a separate and distinct fund, which together with all interest collected on the same, shall be irrevocably pledged for the payment of the interest and principal of said bonds when and as the same fall due, provided, however, that in each year to the extent that the income from the waterworks system is available for the payment of such bonds and is appropriated for such purpose the amount of such tax shall be reduced by the amount of such income so available and appropriated.

Section 6. That said bonds shall be first offered at public sale and interest to the Clerk as officer in charge of the Bond Retirement Fund, and if said officer refuses to take any or all of said bonds, then said bonds not so taken shall be advertised for public sale and sold in the manner provided by law. The proceeds from the sale of said bonds, except the premium and accrued interest thereon shall be used for the purpose aforesaid and for no other purpose; the premium and accrued interest received from such sale shall be transferred to the Bond Retirement Fund to be applied to the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds in the manner provided by law. The Village covenants that the proceeds of said bonds shall not be injected or used in such manner that any of said bonds would be "arbitrage bonds" for purposes of Section 103(d) (1) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954.

Section 7. It is hereby determined that all acts, conditions and things necessary to be done precedent to and in the issuing of these bonds in order to make them legal, valid and binding obligations of said Village have been done, have happened, and been performed in regular and due form as required by law; that the faith, credit and revenue of said Village are hereby irrevocably pledged for the prompt payment of the principal and interest thereof at maturity; and that no limitation of indebtedness or taxation, either statutory or constitutional, has been exceeded in issuing these bonds.

Section 8. The Clerk of this Council is hereby directed to forward a certified copy of this ordinance to the County Auditor of Pickaway County.

Section 9. This ordinance is hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety of said Village, and for the further reason that the immediate issuance of the bonds herein provided for is necessary to preserve the credit of the Village by retiring the outstanding note issued in anticipation thereof, wherefore, this ordinance shall be in effect immediately upon its passage.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Right when the nation's economic referees were about to congratulate themselves on bringing order to the consumer price game, those incorrigible food prices are stepping out of bounds again.

Based on latest wholesale figures, supermarket prices could become the center of attention again. Meat, poultry, eggs, fruits and vegetables seem destined to go higher. And coffee prices too.

The rise forecast in retail coffee prices represents an unexpectedly diabolical blow from nature in the form of a freeze-dried situation in the Brazilian coffee growing areas, where you must remember, it was winter in July.

The wholesale food price problem can be seen as especially intractable when it is contrasted with the prices of other wholesale items which now appear to be conforming to exportations and expectations.

Eliminate food prices from the Wholesale Price Index and it shows for July a rise of only two-tenths of one per cent, which makes a yearly average of 2.4 per cent, a figure that by modern standards is acceptable.

Include the prices of agricultural goods, however, and the WPI rise comes out to eight-tenths of one per cent, a yearly average of 9.6 per cent, a rate that could bankrupt a family of hungry, growing children.

The signals being sent out by this ominous turn are directed in sharp focus at:

—The Prince Commission, which has been hesitant to tangle with farmers.

—The administration and its election advisers, who must know that consumer attitudes can become politicized in election years.

It is nearly too much to believe or bear, but while the nation still wrestles with inflation, albeit while enjoying benefits of a sturdy expansion, some economists are talking about recession.

This dismal outlook may have something to do with the psychology or the politics of the forecaster. Some economists are by nature as dour as their subject; most economists, like others, lean to the left or right in politics.

Whatever the reason for the recession talk, this is the reasoning:

The country is overspending. We'll have a three year federal budget deficit of more than $80 billion. Everyone knows that deficits are inflationary. Nobody knows this more than the Federal Reserve Board.

The Fed, therefore, will be goaded into action. It will seek to restrain the economy by restricting the money supply. And down goes the economy, into a corrective recession, in the latter part of 1973.

Let's Tour Ohio

Southwestern Ohio Offers Beauty, Historic Sites

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of short tours of Ohio travel attractions prepared by Columbus Auto Club Travel Department for The Herald.

This week's tour through the hilly southwestern Ohio area along the Ohio River offers attractions from two different historical periods — the mound builder Indians and the Civil War and life of Ulysses S. Grant.

Fort Hill, off Ohio route 41, was a defensive earthwork thought to have been built by Hopewell Indians.

Urge Law To Assist Suddenly Ill

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Legal experts from the 50 states have decided to press for laws assuring that epileptics, diabetics and others found in public by police in a dazed or disabled condition are handled as sick people.

A proposed law tentatively approved without opposition Tuesday is designed to bar their arrests "which happens too often these days across the land," said Robinson O. Everett. He is a Durham, N.C., lawyer and Duke University professor who headed the committee which drafted the proposed statute.

Only two states — Georgia and Pennsylvania — currently require police to look for a possible medical reason for unconsciousness. The 48 other states will be asked to follow their lead as a result of the action taken Tuesday by The National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws.

"We're trying to make sure ill people aren't treated as criminals," Everett said in an interview following tentative approval of the model law by some 200 legal experts.

Policemen would search the person for an identification bracelet, necklace card or some other sign of medical problem. If the officer found none, he still would be required to send for medical help.

The proposed law is designed also to protect alcoholics and victims of drugs.

Postal Service Wins Lawsuit; Appeal Expected

CINCINNATI (AP) — A suit filed by the City of Cincinnati in an attempt to block construction of a bulk mail facility in Sharonville has been dismissed by U.S. District Court Judge Timothy S. Hogan.

Judge Hogan, in denying the city's request Tuesday for an injunction against construction of the center by the U.S. Postal Service, noted that if an appeal is filed, the appellate court could consider all the issues.

In its suit, the city asked that the Postal Service be required to give further consideration to the renewal area in the West End as a substitute site.

The city contended the Postal Service failed to consider the impact of the Sharonville site on minority groups, the lack of public transportation to Sharonville and the transfer of nearly 600 jobs out of the West End, site of the U.S. Post Office annex.

The stone and earthen wall is nearly two miles long, 10 to 20 feet high, and 40 feet thick at the base. The fort encloses 48 acres.

Along the marked tour to the enclosure are interesting rock outcroppings and a wide variety of plant and animal life. A museum on the grounds features displays on geology, plant and animal life and the Hopewells.

South at Ohio route 73 is Serpent Mound, largest and best-preserved mound effigy in the nation. It is approximately 1,300 feet long and five feet high, and its seven deep curves resemble a serpent uncoiling. An observation tower provides the best view, while a cross section of the mound can be seen in the museum.

Eighteenth U.S. President and commander of the Union armies during the Civil War, U.S. Grant was born in a small frame cottage at Point Pleasant, on the Ohio River.

His birthplace, and the schoolhouse at Georgetown which he attended, have been restored.

AAA suggests this routing to the tour area: From Circleville go south on US 23 to US 50; west on US 50 to State 41; south on State 41 to the tour area.

Pickaway Grange Youth Meet

Pickaway County Grange Youth held their monthly meeting at the home of Ernest and Kate Bidwell.

There were four granges represented. Preceding a wiener roast the business meeting agenda included discussion of the Ohio State Fair Booth. Aug. 19 will be work day for the youth at the Ohio State Grange Camp.

Election of officers was held with the following being elected: Bonnie Bolender, president; Karen Ewing, vice president; Barbara McKenzie, secretary; Barbara Bolender, treasurer; Paul Dunkle, recreation leader; Joan Dawson, news reporter.

The next meeting will be held 7 p.m. Sept. 10 at the home of Bob and Dianne Lands.

Bible School Is Scheduled

Emmett Chapel United Methodist Church will conduct Bible School from 7-9 p.m. Aug. 14 through 19 for ages three through adult. Nursery service will be provided.

On the final evening a carry-in dinner will begin at 6:30.

Let's Tour Ohio

Southwestern Ohio Offers Beauty, Historic Sites

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of short tours of Ohio travel attractions prepared by Columbus Auto Club Travel Department for The Herald.

This week's tour through the hilly southwestern Ohio area along the Ohio River offers attractions from two different historical periods — the mound builder Indians and the Civil War and life of Ulysses S. Grant.

Fort Hill, off Ohio route 41, was a defensive earthwork thought to have been built by Hopewell Indians.

The stone and earthen wall is nearly two miles long, 10 to 20 feet high, and 40 feet thick at the base. The fort encloses 48 acres.

Along the marked tour to the enclosure are interesting rock outcroppings and a wide variety of plant and animal life. A museum on the grounds features displays on geology, plant and animal life and the Hopewells.

South at Ohio route 73 is Serpent Mound, largest and best-preserved mound effigy in the nation. It is approximately 1,300 feet long and five feet high, and its seven deep curves resemble a serpent uncoiling. An observation tower provides the best view, while a cross section of the mound can be seen in the museum.

The Rankin House, located at Ripley, was the home of the Rev. John Rankin, a key figure in the abolitionist movement during the Civil War period. A stop on the "underground railroad" through which many slaves found freedom, the home is restored and contains many of Rankin's personal items.

Eighteenth U.S. President and commander of the Union armies during the Civil War, U.S. Grant was born in a small frame cottage at Point Pleasant, on the Ohio River.

His birthplace, and the schoolhouse at Georgetown which he attended, have been restored.

AAA suggests this routing to the tour area: From Circleville go south on US 23 to US 50; west on US 50 to State 41; south on State 41 to the tour area.

Urge Law To Assist Suddenly Ill

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Legal experts from the 50 states have decided to press for laws assuring that epileptics, diabetics and others found in public by police in a dazed or disabled condition are handled as sick people.

A proposed law tentatively approved without opposition Tuesday is designed to bar their arrests "which happens too often these days across the land," said Robinson O. Everett. He is a Durham, N.C., lawyer and Duke University professor who headed the committee which drafted the proposed statute.

Only two states — Georgia and Pennsylvania — currently require police to look for a possible medical reason for unconsciousness. The 48 other states will be asked to follow their lead as a result of the action taken Tuesday by The National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws.

"We're trying to make sure all people aren't treated as criminals," Everett said in an interview following tentative approval of the model law by some 200 legal experts.

Policemen would search the person for an identification bracelet, necklace card or some other sign of medical problem. If the officer found none, he still would be required to send for medical help.

The proposed law is designed also to protect alcoholics and victims of drugs.

Postal Service Wins Lawsuit; Appeal Expected

CINCINNATI (AP) — A suit filed by the City of Cincinnati in an attempt to block construction of a bulk mail facility in Sharonville has been dismissed by U.S. District Court Judge Timothy S. Hogan.

Judge Hogan, in denying the city's request Tuesday for an injunction against construction of the center by the U.S. Postal Service, noted that if an appeal is filed, the appellate court could consider all the issues.

In its suit, the city asked that the Postal Service be required to give further consideration to the renewal area in the West End as a substitute site.

The city contended the Postal Service failed to consider the impact of the Sharonville site on minority groups, the lack of public transportation to Sharonville and the transfer of nearly 600 jobs out of the West End, site of the U.S. Post Office annex.

Butz Sets Address

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz will deliver the keynote address Aug. 15 at the two-day national conference of the American Soybean Association.
